Dr. Hoke To Head New Warm Springs Health Center

SURGEON TO QUIT PRIVATE PRACTICE TO DIRECT WORK

Famous Specialist To Aid Foundation's Plan of Making Resort America's Greatest Center for Orthopedic Treatment.

HUBBARD TO HEAD EXTENSION WORK

Information Service Will Be Carried to All Parts of U. S.; Increased Facilities Planned.

Plans for expansion of the facilities and extension of field service of the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation were revealed Friday in the appointment by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, of Dr. Michael Hoke, of Atlanta, as surgeon-in-chief of the foundation, effective December 1. The foundation, under the plans will become America's greatest orthopedic treatment center.

Dr. Hoke is internationally known for his work in orthopedic surgery and is reputed to be the world's outstanding specialist in that field. He will be in charge of all infantile paralysis remedial work at the foundation, while Dr. Leroy W. Hubbard, present chief surgeon, will assume charge of extension work, entailing considerable travel and field work throughout the United States.

Plan of Founders.

In announcing the appointment,
Governor Roosevelt said:

"This will enable the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation to carry out its original two-fold purpose—first, of conducting the work at Warm Springs, and, second, of establishing an extension and information service throughout the country.

Through the generosity of many individuals from all parts of the country and the co-operation of the medical profession, it has been possible to develop this institution and to make the services of a competent medical authority available at cost. Our work at Warm Springs, which so far has been mostly devoted to after-treatment of infantile paralysis, has grown steadily during the five years since the foundation was formed, and it is now possible to take this step looking to the development of a comprehensive orthopedic center. This should mean an opportunity for expanded service to the physically handicapped."

Increased Facilities Planned.

Dr. Hubbard Friday said that while plans have not yet been discussed as to the scope of the expansion, he felt confident that it would largely increase the facilities for after-treatment of infantile paralysis patients at the springs, and at the same time create a nationwide service in field work and dissemination of information bearing on the remedial qualities of the resort and its foundation.

At present, Dr. Hubbard said, the foundation is equipped to care for only certain types of cases, and limited facilities provide for a maximum of between 90 and 100 patients. While the present chief surgeon could not

DEFENSE OF POOLE HAS INNING TODAY

Early Session Called To Make Up for Time Lost Friday.

The trial of Patrolman A. D. Poole, son of Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole, on charges of assault with intent to murder R. H. "Red" Wood while making an arrest, will go into its third day today, when an early session of court, has been ordered in an effort to make up for time lost Friday.

The trial of the entire morning was spent in a squabble over a juror.
The afternoon session was featured by a scathing remark by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin that he was dealing with a group of sympathetic officers in attempting to prosecute the case.

Judge John B. Hutcheson has called the trial to open this morning at 8:30 o'clock instead of the usual 9:30, and indications were that the case probably would consume the entire day. The hearing has continued on Thursday and Friday until almost 6
p. m. The usual 2 o'clock recess has been dispensed with.

The trial will be completed with but 11 jurors, as D. E. Martin has been excused to attend the funeral of a relative. The prosecution was led by Ernest V. Cash, another juror, on the grounds that he was arrested on a charge of assault on the morning of the Wood arrest. It also was pointed out that Watson was probably the state witness for the defense. Judge Hutcheson ruled against the prosecution.

Shields on Hand.

Boykin's remark concerning the forces that opposed him came as the trial was resumed Friday afternoon, when W. L. Shields, special officer at the Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills, and the state's chief witness, was placed on the stand. Shields had testified that he already had placed his hand on Wood's shoulder and had him under arrest when Poole is alleged to have shot him. When Boykin questioned him concerning any conversation that passed between Poole and Wood, the officer Shields said that he could not remember.

Boykin then asked him to refresh his memory. He testified that he made to the grand jury, and attorneys for the defense objected to the method of questioning on the grounds that it was "leading."

"It may be leading," said Boykin hotly, "but the court knows why I am leading the witness. It is permissible to ask a witness to refresh his memory, and I am doing it because I am having to deal with a bunch of sympathetic policemen in this trial."

Defense Has Inning Today.

During the afternoon the state continued to pile up evidence, some of which was contradictory, and it is expected that the defense will place its witnesses on the stand before noon today. At the close of the day A. K.
Mullinax, 152 Savannah street, was

WAVES OF BUYING ADVANCE MARKETS OVER ALL FRONTS

Cotton and Stocks Join Grain and Silver in Rise.
Share Values Jump
Nearly Two Billion.

By The Associated Press.

Irrepressible bullishness again swept through leading financial markets yesterday, sending prices of leading securities and important staples to new highs for the recovery.

The value of all shares on the
New York Stock Exchange increased $1,919,611,610 during October to a total of $34,246,649,051 as of November 1, and today's leading shares gained as high as $4 with a few reaching $9.

Wheat abruptly reversed a morning decline in the Chicago pit, and ended the session at new highs for currently traded future deliveries, 3-8 to 1 cent a bushel above Thursday's closing levels.

The stock market executed an abrupt about-face as wheat began to bulge. Prices of leading shares scored gains of $1 to $4 with a few issues getting up $5 to $9.

Wall Street was particularly impressed with strength in the bond market for the sixth successive session.

Silver was again feverishly bought in both New York and London, rising to the highest level for 1931.
Spot silver in New York sold up 1-4 to 34 cents an ounce.

Shares of silver, copper, lead, zinc and gold producers surged upward in the stock market.

While 72-1-4 cents a bushel for the July delivery of wheat was the highest price attained in the Chicago futures market, dollar wheat, which more eager bulls have been predicting, became a reality in Seattle, where highest grade "Montana" dark sold at $1.01.

Corn gained 3-4 to 1-1-4 cent a bushel in the Chicago pit. Oats were about unchanged, but rye advanced about a cent.

Prices pushed upward in the New York Cattle Exchange in the most active session in weeks, the market closing with gains of 1-5 to 2-5 of a cent.

Cotton advanced moderately in the late trading. After early hesitancy, futures in the New York market closed with gains of 45 to 75 cents a bale.

GRAIN MARKET STAGES SENSATIONAL RECOVERY

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The grain market climbed higher today despite an ominous opening.

Wheat opened the morning session, picking out a closing price of 71-1-2 to 5-8. This was 7-8 to 1-1-8 higher than yesterday.

Corn opened at the mad moments of buying. Oats held their ground and rye rounded to top prices of the season.

The break in prices and views nipped
the steady rise at the opening. Prices slipped off as much as 2-5-8 cents.
Then buying orders poured in. This was the break in prices many traders had been awaiting and they climbed aboard. The spread between the

Two Saloon Keepers Are Slain by Gunmen

DETROIT, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Thirty hours after a coroner's jury had operated Joe Rivett, 60-year-old saloon keeper, of blame for killing a notorious down-town liquor operator, a machine gun squad opened fire in a Wyandotte saloon tonight, killing Rivett and another man and wounding a customer.

Rivett arrived at the saloon of Charles Tear, 34, five minutes before the reprisal squad entered. There was a volley from two machine guns and one or two shotguns and Rivett and Tear fell dead. John Belliter, 40, who was standing at the bar, is expected to die of several wounds in the head and neck.

Three weeks ago Rivett beat Joe Evola to the draw in what police said was a quarrel over Rivett's refusal to sell Evola's beer in his saloon. A coroner's jury found yesterday that Rivett had shot in self-defense.

Gloria Swanson's Marriage To Irish Sportsman Revealed

Gloria Swanson, long-time favorite of the screen, and her latest husband, Michael Farmer, wealthy Irish sportsman, to whom she was married August 16.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Sun today quoted Mayor John Murray, of Elmsford, N. Y., as saying he performed a marriage ceremony on August 16 for Gloria Swanson, film star, and Michael Farmer, wealthy Irish sportsman, at the home of Dudley Field Malone.

Mayor Murray later confirmed the report of the marriage.

Miss Swanson returned from a five-week vacation in Europe on August

Farmer was a passenger on the same liner.

The actress told reporters that she "certainly will marry again sometime," when she was asked what her plans would be after the conclusion of her divorce proceedings dissolving her marriage to the Marquis De La Palaise.

She left New York for California
August 17.

TEST PILOT KILLED IN BOMBER'S CRASH

Plane Appears To Collapse During Power Dive From 15,000 Feet.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—
The meteor-like drop of a plane from above the navy's flying field here today brought the shock of an air tragedy to the capital for the second time in 24 hours.

Edward L. Ritchie, pilot for the Glenn L. Martin Company, of Baltimore, was killed just after noon. A bomber he was testing for the navy failed to come out of a dive which began at an altitude estimated at 15,000 feet.

Three Washington residents and one from a nearby town in Virginia lost their lives early last night as a Ludington Lines fast passenger plane plunged down at Camden, N. J.

Ritchie, 28, a former naval combat flyer, was testing a diving bomber for the third and last time before its accidents.

Naval officers, who were watching, said the plane appeared to fall apart soon after the dive began. The ship seemed to gather speed as it neared the ground. The motor was still roaring wildly when Ritchie was seen, apparently trying to detach himself about 200 feet above ground.

The noise of the crash was heard almost a mile away. Ritchie's body was thrown clear, but his parachute was found to be fouled in the fuselage.

Reports reaching this city indicate that there has been little check of the flames so far, everything being swept before the walls of fire, which spread out in many directions.

SEN. T. H. CARAWAY OF ARKANSAS, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Operated Upon a Week Ago, Democratic Leader Was Thought Recovering; Arteries Closed Up.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 6.—(AP)

United States Senator Thaddeus H.
Caraway, arch foe of the lobbyist and leader in the congressional fight for farm relief legislation, died suddenly here tonight.

Although he underwent an operation for removal of a kidney stone
last Thursday, Senator Caraway's death was unexpected and physicians believed him rapidly recovering.

The sixty-year-old junior Arkansas senator, who thrust himself into prominence a decade ago with attacks upon the Harding administration that resulted in a senate investigation, died after laughing and joking with friends who visited him tonight.

He complained of a pain a few minutes before 8 o'clock, but dismissed it as "nothing." He died a few minutes later.

His physician, Dr. J. R. Dibrell, said death was caused by "coronary occlusion," a closing of the arteries which supply the muscles of the heart.

Suffering from a kidney ailment for some time, Senator Caraway had spent a great part of the last few months in hospitals.

After the last session of congress, where he was a successful fighter for relief for the drought stricken, he entered a hospital in Washington.

Later, however, he improved to such an extent that he was able to return to his home at Jonesboro.

The attack occurred and he entered a hospital at Hot Springs this morning. Again apparently recovering, he returned to his home, but was brought to a hospital here about a week ago with physicians describing him
as a "very sick man."

His condition was built up to what was described as "satisfactory."

He underwent an operation here
October 29 for removal of a kidney stone, and apparently was recovering from the operation.

Senator Caraway, who made his home at Jonesboro, was elected prosecuting attorney of his district in 1908, serving in this office until his election as a representative in 1913.

Under Arkansas law, the vacancy caused by Senator Caraway's death will be filled by an appointee of Governor Harvey Parnell and a successor will be elected in the next general election.

Senator Caraway's term expires
March 3, 1933.

New England Hit By Snow Flurries

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Tumbling temperatures and flurries of snow gave most of New England an unreasonable taste of winter tonight, with indications that the mercury would drop far below freezing before morning.

While New York, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island saw only brief trails of snow, country in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, the countryside was covered with a blanket that measured as much as five inches in some sections.

Meanwhile a whistling wind made the cold more pronounced as temperatures fell to freezing.

SHERIFF SHACKLEFORD PROBES ACCUSERS' PASTS

Sheriff Elmer M. Shackelford, of Pike county, tonight indicated that as part court in Macon on next Tuesday, when he will be arraigned on an indictment charging him with "conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law," in alleged acceptance of bribes,

Dreiser and Editor Exchange Jibes On Income and Service to Society

HARLAN, Ky., Nov. 6.—(AP)— Theodore Dreiser, who came to Kentucky's hills to investigate the sanguinary coal field controversy of the Harlan district, was transformed from prosecutor to witness today by a newspaperman who sought to learn if the famous novelist practiced what he advocated.

The newspaperman—Herndon Evans, publisher of the Pineville Sun—learned from the author of "An American Tragedy" that his annual income was approximately $35,000, and that he gave none of it to charity.

For the Mercer-Birmingham Southern home-coming game at Macon, a game at Grand field.

Dr. Dreiser and other New York writers were conducting the first session of their inquiry into conditions in the coal fields and were questioning Mr. Evans.

Dreiser questioned the Kentucky editor about his religion, income and other personal matters and asked Evans if he thought it fair to earn

ANOTHER GEORGIA SHERIFF INDICTED

Liberty County Officer Accused of Conspiracy To Violate Dry Law.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—
Charles L. Redding, United States district attorney, announced today the indictment by a federal grand jury, of Sheriff M. F. Clark, of Liberty county, on a charge of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

The Liberty county officer is the second Georgia sheriff to be charged with conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law within the last two days. The federal grand jury at Macon Wednesday returned a similar indictment against Sheriff Elmer M.
Shackelford, of Pike county, charging he accepted bribes from operators of illicit stills in his county.

The indictment against Sheriff
Clark was an outgrowth of the shooting of C. C. Stewart, alias Wilson, August 5, near Rico, Ga. Stewart charged Sheriff Clark with "double-crossing" him, and said he had paid the officer money for "protection."

At a preliminary hearing Sheriff
Clark denied the charges and said they were the result of his "unconscious efforts" to break up liquor gangs in his county. He made bond of $10,000 after the hearing, and federal officers said today they expected he will arrive here tomorrow to make another bond.

Indicted on the same charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law with Sheriff Clark were E. P. Way, naval stores operator, of Hinesville, Ga., and Fred Ginter, construction engineer. Way and Ginter also were indicted on a charge of using the mails to defraud, growing out of a letter
allegedly written to Miss Mary Stra-
han, daughter of F. D. M. Strahan, Brunswick, in an attempt to extort
money.

William Van A. Green, William
P. Parks, Richard Autrey and Charles F. Allen were indicted on counterfeiting charges. W. H. Warner, transferred here for prosecution after being arrested at Brewton, Ala., was indicted today for violations of the prohibition act, Harrison narcotic law and the national motor theft law.

The district attorney also said Arthur J. Curran, Jr., was indicted on dicted on a charge of using the mails
to defraud, growing out of a letter
allegedly written to Miss Mary Stra-
han, daughter of F. D. M. Strahan, Brunswick, in an attempt to extort
money.

Southern Democrats To Hold Firm Grip on House Reins

Speaker May Be Selected From East or West To Salve Over Possible Delicate Situation.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—After 12 years of waiting in the role of the minority group members of congress from the southern states are faced with prospects today of proving the dominant influence in the next house.

The election of a democratic congressman in the eighth Michigan district Tuesday, carrying with it the apparent assurance that democrats will organize the next house, leaves southern members in a highly enviable position. By virtue of the long standing seniority rule, which gives priority to continuous service, southern members will have first claim on the chairmanships of all major committees.

In addition, a southern man, Representative John Garner, of Texas, will be the new speaker. Two other southern men, Representative Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee, and Representative Charles H. Crisp, of Georgia, are prominently mentioned for the majority leadership, but in view of demands being voiced by members from the east and western sections for a more equitable distribution of committee chairmanships, this important office is expected to go to someone else. As some of the party's leaders put it, undue friction might be invited if the south should take all of the major house assignments, and so, as a means of salving over the situation, the proposal is being put forward to go to the east or the middle west for the new leader. At the moment two names are being projected prominently, Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, and Representative John J. O'Connor, of New York. The matter will probably not be decided until house democrats meet in caucus before the session starts in December.

There are 11 so-called major committees in the house, committees to which a member is assigned to the exclusion of all others. Of these 11, a southern man, under the seniority rule, will be chairman of every one. And of the total list of some 45 committees, southern members occupy ranking positions on more than 30. Aside from the numerical strength the south would hold enables it to completely dominate affairs of the lower body.

Texas alone will stand to gain six of the chairmanships, Alabama five, Georgia two, North Carolina, South Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee and Florida several each, but strange as it may be, Virginia, long the foothold of democracy, will be without a single one. It is too early yet to say exactly how the chairmanships will be distributed. After the party caucus meets and decides the question the present indicated list may be changed somewhat.

Representative Carl Vinson, of Georgia, is slated to get the naval affairs committee, while Representative W. C. Calkins will be able to lay claim to the committee on territories. On the other hand, Representative Charles H. Brand holds a similar position on banking and currency. Other Georgia members are far up the list on their respective bodies. In the event the democrats organize the house the new chairmen of the 11 major committees probably will be as follows: Agriculture, Marvin Jones, Texas. Appropriations, Joseph W. Byrns, Tennessee. Banking and currency, Henry B. Steagall, Alabama. Foreign affairs, J. Charles Linthicum, Maryland. Interstate and foreign commerce, Sam Rayburn, Texas. Judiciary, Hatten M. Summers, Texas. Military affairs, Percy E. Quinn, Mississippi. Naval affairs, Carl Vinson, Georgia. Rivers and harbors, Joseph J. Mansfield, Texas. Rules, Edward W. Pou, North Carolina. Ways and means, James W. Collier, Mississippi.

Liner Catches Fire.
HOBOKEN, N. J., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The ocean liner Statendam, of the Holland-American line, caught fire today when flames raged across the freight station of the Hoboken Manufacturers' railroad at Sixth street and the Hudson river. The Statendam was towed out into the Hudson, where the fire was extinguished.

FRED J. ROBINSON IS TRANSFERRED

Readjustment of the executive personnel of the Central of Georgia railway will on December 1 transfer Fred J. Robinson from Atlanta to Savannah, where he will resume his former duties as general passenger agent. He was transferred here from Savannah in 1928 as executive general agent. Mr. Robinson is well known in railroad circles and has been with the Central of Georgia since 1888, with a majority of his service in the passenger traffic department. He has held such positions as traveling passenger agent, western passenger agent, and general passenger agent. President H. D. Pollard, of the Central of Georgia, in making the announcement of Mr. Robinson's transfer said it was the result of changing conditions and that the executive office in Atlanta had been discontinued. Mr. Robinson's many friends in Atlanta will regret to hear of his departure.

DILL PROPOSES ROOSEVELT VOTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Associates of Governor Roosevelt are in receipt of a telegram from Scott Bullitt, former democratic national committeeman of Seattle, Wash., stating that Senator Dill has proposed that a Washington delegation instructed for Mr. Roosevelt be sent to the 1932 convention. The telegram said Senator Dill made the proposal at a meeting of the Roosevelt-for-President Club in Seattle.

DUGGAN ADDRESSES SCHOOL EXECUTIVES

Educators Discuss Means of Maintaining High Standards in South.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Difficulties added to the south's problem of maintaining a high level of public school facilities by the economic depression were discussed today at the fourth annual southern education conference at the University of North Carolina here.

Dr. James J. Doster, dean of the college of education of the University of Alabama, pointed out that the south even in the best of times supported its schools under the handicap of the lowest per capita wealth of any section in the Union.

J. A. Roberts, assistant commissioner of education for Tennessee, said public schools were suffering in that state from the legislature's failure to provide sufficient revenues to meet its appropriations.

He related that some counties were reducing the length of the school terms and cutting the salaries of teachers.

Dr. Charles G. Maples, dean of the University of Virginia, told the educators they must lay aside explanations and excuses and face the problem of illiteracy in the south squarely.

M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of schools for Georgia, said the pinch of economic conditions was felt there and that politics had hampered the public schools, but that the state was realizing "our public school system is our state's greatest and most important public interest and it will eventually be given the right of way in matters of support."

The Georgia superintendent traced the political situation in Georgia during 1928, 1929 and 1930, when the state failed to meet its appropriations to the common schools by $3,750,000, which resulted in the local schools borrowing to meet the situation.

He described how the then governor, L. G. Hardman, and the attorney general "began to claim that these unpaid appropriations ($3,750,000) were not legal obligations against the state."

Dr. Duggan said such a situation resulted in a widespread feeling of dissatisfaction and discouragement throughout the state with teachers going unpaid, local obligations were unpaid and local banks would make no further loans to schools. Some schools were closed and that a disorganization threatened the school system.

He said that the state democratic convention in 1930 declared for payment to the schools in the platform and Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., in his speech of acceptance at the convention, termed the obligations "as morally and legally binding upon the state as any bond issue authorized by the constitution."

Dr. Duggan said the legislature in session this year not only acknowledged the unpaid appropriations, but made a definite provision for a large payment, which has since been made. He expressed the opinion that Governor Russell "will faithfully carry out provisions of the recent general assembly for further payments to be made next spring and summer."

"These promises and provisions," Dr. Duggan continued, "have stopped all insinuations of repudiation and restored state-wide confidence in the state's intention to pay all of its indebtedness to its public schools."

There was an old woman who lived in a shoe;
She had so many children she didn't know what to do;
She gave them ALAGA to go on their bread;
She kissed them all sweetly and put them to bed

Her problem was solved when she gave her children ALAGA, with its delicious flavor of Georgia Cane, and they grew up to be fine, healthy men and women, for ALAGA is as nutritious as it is good.

Virginia Apples - more weight - juice - flavor

WITH a longer growing season, these apples from the Virginia Valley just naturally store up more juice, more flavor.

It's a long interval between the spring days when the blossoms first creep up the mountain side and the fall days when some of the apples' cheeks blush red and other "rarities" turn the color of old gold.

All summer they've been honeyed by the sun. Day after day they've grown and "sweetened" in the orchard. By actual test they weigh about five pounds more to the bushel than northern grown. A Winesap, Stayman or Jonathan or other rarity grown in the North or West doesn't taste like the same apple. For nowhere else do such ideal conditions of soil and climate meet.

Always ask for Virginia Apples because they're heavier in weight, juice and flavor—apples with "suction." Virginia Apple Growers, Staunton, Va.

FOR health's sake eat at least three a day. Try some of the 200 famous salads and desserts described in the Virginia Apple Cook Book. It tells how to make thrilling tarts, flummies, flamingoes, whisks, chutneys, pies, puddings, egg-nogs, et al. It tells, too, the season when each variety is at its best—when to buy Winesaps, Jonathans, Black Twigs, Grimes' Golden and all the rest—which are best for cooking—for eating. Do write for one now!

MANY REQUESTS MADE BY OCHS-OAKES WILL

Chattanooga Institutions Will Receive Gifts From Publisher's Estate.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Numerous special bequests to Chattanooga (Tenn.) institutions are included in the will of George Washington Ochs-Oakes, filed for probate today. The value of the estate was not given except in the usual form, "in excess of $100,000."

Annuitants were provided for Mr. Ochs-Oakes' brother, Milton S. Ochs, and his sisters, Mrs. Mattie Ochs Talmer and Mrs. Ada Ochs Adler, as well as other relatives and friends. Among them are Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, a brother; Colonel Julius Ochs Adler, Captain William Van Dyke Ochs, Mrs. Margaret Ochs Palmer, Mrs. Julius Ochs Adler, Mrs. William Van Dyke Ochs, Mrs. Adolph S. Ochs II, Milton H. Gans, Harry C. Adler, Mrs. Effie Wise Ochs, Mrs. Milton S. Ochs and Bernard Talmer.

The will, which carried no date, showed that a $5,000 fund was established to erect a monument to the memory of Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, in Chattanooga. A board for the erection of this monument was named, consisting of Zabin Patten, vice president of the First National Bank of Chattanooga; Alex M. Chambliss, justice of the Tennessee supreme court, and E. Y. Chapin, president of the American Trust and Banking Company of Chattanooga. Mr. Ochs-Oakes also left $10,000 to Mr. Ochs.

Among other bequests was an annuity of $15,000 to Mr. Ochs-Oakes' sister, Nannie Ochs, for her own support and for the support of Mr. Ochs-Oakes' two sons.

The will directed that the remainder of the estate is to be divided between Mr. Ochs-Oakes' two sons when they reach the age of 30. At 25, it says, they are to be paid $10,000 each and a monthly income of $400. If they are married before they are 30, they are to be given a wedding gift of $20,000.

If the sons should die before 30, the estate is to be used to establish a chair at the Hebrew Union College

New Blue-and-White Tags Here

Georgia's 1932 automobile tags, fresh from the factory at Milledgeville, are so pretty that Miss Will Nell Sanders, of the motor vehicle department, just couldn't resist the temptation to try out a set. Sale of the tags beginning January 1 will be under the newly-created state revenue commission. The plates are blue with white letters and figures, and are readable from a longer distance than the 1931 tags because a larger size has been adopted. The letters are A, B and C for heavy cars and D, E and F for light cars. Staff photo by George Cornett.

of Cincinnati, to be known as the "George Washington Ochs - Oakes Foundation," for the purpose of "reaching the universality and liberalism of the Jewish faith."

Other bequests were: Mattie Talmer, a sister, $15,000; Milton B. Ochs, a brother, $15,000, and Ada Ochs Adler, another sister, $10,000.

The Chattanooga Library Association was given $1,000 "for the purchase of books and documents relating to municipal and kindred subjects."

They are to be placed in a special alcove "to be designated 'The George W. Ochs-Oakes Alcove.'" Mr. Ochs-Oakes was mayor of Chattanooga from 1893 to 1897 and was one of the founding directors of the library association.

The board of education of Chattanooga was given $1,000 in trust, the income to be expended in the purchase of suitable medals to be presented annually to graduates of the high schools.

The trustees of the Julius and Bertha Ochs Memorial synagogue were given $1,000 "for the use or adornment or the acquisition of any suitable fixture or appliance or article for said memorial synagogue."

The Times Printing Company of Chattanooga was willed $5,000 in trust, the income to be applied annually to the fund for "the Chattanooga Times' neediest cases."

The New York Times Company received $2,000 in trust, the income of which is to be applied to "the New York Times' neediest cases."

The will confirmed a $10,000 subscription made to the Hebrew Union College at Cincinnati, Ohio, and which was to be made payable after Mr. Ochs-Oakes' death. The income is to be applied annually toward a fellowship.

Girl's Life Saved By Radio Appeal For Blood-Donors

Credit for saving the life of a 9-year-old girl was given Friday night to radio, use of which was employed the night before to call for volunteers who would give blood for a transfusion into the veins of Frances Roper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Roper, of Marietta.

The condition of the little girl early Friday night was reported as favorable and belief that she will live was expressed by doctors at Georgia Baptist hospital, where she is a patient. She requested food during the afternoon, following her return to consciousness.

Atlanta radio listeners had been electrified by an appeal for a little girl who was dying. The announcer informed that she needed a blood transfusion. Within 10 minutes a suitable blood specimen was found and L. O. Wright, Atlanta insurance executive, who had answered the call, submitted to the transfusion. If a second transfusion is found necessary, L. M. DeSaussure, of 12 Roxboro road, whose blood matches that of the child, stands in readiness.

Atlanta Develops Cotton Insulation For Refrigeration

Use of cotton for refrigeration insulation in temperatures as low as 50 degrees below zero has been developed by Ralph V. Grayson, Atlanta refrigeration engineer, he announced Friday. Low temperatures are required for commercial freezing of fruits and vegetables, and general adoption of the new process would provide a market for between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 bales of cotton a year, Grayson said.

Grayson believes that his findings may revolutionize the refrigeration industry, as the new product could be produced at approximately one-half the cost of other insulating materials now in use. The engineer said that cotton is successfully used as a substitute for fiber and plaster wall boarding.

Eugene Talmadge, state commissioner of agriculture, Friday urged fellow commissioners of cotton producing states to protest to the federal tariff commission against an attempt to remove the tariff from long staple cotton. Massachusetts mill interests have filed applications for removal of the 7 per cent tariff on foreign long staple, he said.

FRED S. STEELE DIES AT CANTON, OHIO, HOME

Fred S. Steele, of Canton, Ohio, died at his home there Thursday. His Atlanta survivors include his mother, Mrs. S. C. Steele; two sisters, Mrs. E. J. Sanders and Mrs. Dora E. Miller, and one brother, J. O. Steele.

Other survivors are: Two daughters, Eleanor and Marie Steele, of Canton, and four other brothers, H. M. of Birmingham, Ala.; W. A. Steele, of Asheville, N. C.; and Hubert Steele, of Birmingham, Ala. Funeral services will be held today in Canton.

GOOD SAMARITAN MERCHANTS

Inspired by the fact that business is good or bad... that employment is great or below normal... that prosperity is shared by all only in direct ratio to the dollar's turnover in production and trade... the GOOD SAMARITAN CAMPAIGN, which starts today, is designed to afford an added incentive to further stimulate business in the Atlanta Market.

The GOOD SAMARITAN CAMPAIGN is designed to render still another most important service... offering substantial financial assistance to churches or charities of the community which may be interested in sharing a portion of the $6,000.00 in cash which is to be awarded during the next six months.

The Good Samaritan Campaign is made possible by the merchants and businesses whose advertisements appear on this page. They have been inspired by the manifold good purposes its operation suggests, and churches and charities are invited to participate under the conditions suggested below.

No prizes will be given during the first week's operation, though all are urged to save their vote tokens and vote them for the double prize sum to be offered at the end of the second week.

Headquarters will be maintained at 237 Peachtree Arcade, street level floor, and entry blanks and other information can be had there.

RULES

Weekly Prizes to Churches or Charities Delivering Greatest Vote for Each Period. Totals to Be Carried Forward to Be Applied to Grand Prize Distribution at Close of Campaign.

One vote for each cent of expenditure in cash purchases from participating businesses or firms. One vote for each cent paid on account, provided such receipts are voted directly by the payee. In no case shall uncalled for receipts be given to any organization or individual by participating firm to be voted by other than payee.

Businesses and merchants are required to dispose of all uncalled for and unused cash register tickets, duplicate cash sales slips which might otherwise be collected by contesting organizations and voted.

The purpose and theory of the campaign is to make all tokens voted representative of actual transactions by interested individuals and organizations.

The cooperation of both the merchant and the individual is necessary to the full attainment of the purposes of the campaign.

paign—to stimulate buying... to speed payment of accounts to generally improve community business.

The right to throw out all votes offered which may indicate a violation of the letter and spirit of the rules and purposes of the campaign is reserved.

Representatives of organizations entered in the campaign are requested to cast their votes at the Campaign Headquarters, Main Floor Peachtree Arcade, as frequently as possible, at least once each week.

The standing of competing organizations will be announced each Tuesday. Votes for each given week must be in by Saturday noon.

Read Every Advertisement Carefully

Only then will you know what counts for votes. In some cases it is the cash register ticket which you have been customarily receiving and disposing of... Now these same tickets have a definite value to your church... In other cases it will be the duplicate sales slips. In a few other cases it may be wrappers or containers or labels or bottle caps.

GAME FUND TRANSFER REPORTED TO RUSSELL

Action Irregular, But Money Spent Properly, Wisdom Says.

The state game and fish department transferred $14,318.24 from the game protection fund to the coastal fund without having requisitioned from the state treasury, but the amount was used by the coastal fisheries to defray expenses which appear proper and legitimate, State Auditor Tom Russell reported Friday to Governor Wisdom in an audit of the department.

The money should have been disbursed in the state treasury and withdrawn upon requisition in accordance with provisions of the Neill act, Wisdom said.

Peter S. Twitty, game and fish commissioner, said that the transfer was made with the authority of the state board of game and fish, and that it had been the custom of the department to clear collections from the coastal fisheries division through the larger game protection fund. Transfer of the money was made necessary through decreased revenues in the fisheries department, Twitty said.

The auditor's report showed that for the past 12 months prawn have not been running in sufficient numbers for it to be profitable for fishermen to operate, and as a result the boats have been tied up at the dock paying no license and there is very little prawn tax being collected. A prawn survey early in the fiscal year placed additional expense on the department, but the services of a number of employees have been discontinued and salaries of others reduced and the United States department of commerce is now paying salaries of three men engaged in the prawn survey, the report said.

The audit showed, for the fiscal year ended June 30, collections of $86,907.22, of which $70,493.08 came from hunting licenses and $14,337 from the coastal fisheries. The remainder represented a balance carried over.

WALGREEN TO OPEN STORE HERE TODAY

The first store of the Walgreen Company in Atlanta will open this morning in the new William-Oliver building at Five Points, a number of novel features having been arranged for the event.

The company has sent a Sikorsky amphibian plane here from Chicago to take 50 persons who attend the opening sale on a ride above the city Sunday. The plane arrived at Candler field Friday afternoon, piloted by Capt. J. J. Vickery. Others in the plane were W. Wallace, A. Zelechewer, V. Magnusson, T. Flonke, Abel Ginzburg, E. L. Hallgren and B. J. Pritchard, assistant pilot.

The plane left Chicago at 7 a. m., stopping at Evansville, Nashville and Chattanooga. It made the distance to Atlanta, 670 miles, in 5 hours and 50 minutes flying time. Plans are being made today to take up a number of city officials and other civic and business leaders.

Plans are being made by the company to open a number of other stores in Atlanta. The leases are being handled through Samuel Rothberg.

Important Schedule Changes Effective

Sunday, November 8th

The Southland Train 32, will leave Atlanta 7:40 A. M., instead of 7:50 A. M., arriving Cincinnati 9:45 P. M., eastern time, and Louisville, 8:45 P. M.

Train No. 4 for Knoxville via Blue Ridge will leave Atlanta 7:00 A. M., instead of 8:15 A. M.

Train No. 6 for Copperhill, formerly leaving Atlanta 4:10 P. M., will be discontinued.

Life of Thomas A. Edison

BY DAVID WILSON.

Chapter XX.

150 Years of Work Completed.

Thomas Edison came to 1927 with a feeling of acute boredom and new experience. His son, Charles, was supervising his "invention factory" at West Orange, N. J., and all his other factories, and was doing it most effectively.

The senior Edison was no longer needed to keep the great industries he had created going at top speed.

He was 80, but that meant nothing to an Edison. His father, grandfather and great-grandfather all had lived past 80.

Thomas Edison was an institution. His birthdays were receptions with nations waiting to read the interviews of him. He found this as bothersome as dull in 1927 as he had found the honors of foreign governments on his European trip in 1889.

Mrs. Edison might beg him, in her motherly way, to rest. She always had begged him to rest, knowing that he would not.

Rest Unwelcome. But Edison did not wish rest. He needed something to do, and Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone had been talking every time they went on camping trips with him, about rubber, and how it ought to be grown in the United States. They wanted domestic rubber? Very well, they were old friends and he would give it to them.

Edison's long gray hair was thinning; his beetling brows were almost white. That did not matter. He set out on experiments that could not end in less than a decade. He set about testing thousands of plants for signs of substance similar to rubber. He found traces in 1,000 plants mostly species of goldenrod and ragweed and other rank growths of the countryside. He ordered gardens of these plants, and grew and tested until only 40 remained, all golden rod or cousins of golden rod. He supervised cross-breeding until he had species 10 feet tall and rich in gummy sap like rubber.

Edison's method was the method of the '80s when he was pursuing the ideal sort of bamboo for his incandescent lamp. Once more he was ready to try anything, confident nature would not withhold a secret if he sought long enough to discover it.

For the first time weakness and illness began to hamper his experiments, but he was still the same old Edison, patient to exhaustion with his trial and error method; still the Edison of baggy, uncarved-for clothes, wearing varying numbers of suits of underwear to suit the day; he would not need to be hampered by a topcoat; still the Edison who would pursue an idea through 50,000 experiments if he needed to find perfection.

There were interruptions in this search for rubber, interruptions Edison never would have stood for in years gone by. There was that special medal from congress in 1928, commemorating Edison's achievements, with President Coolidge joining the rest of the nation in paying tribute; there was the 50th anniversary of the electric light in 1929, which inevitably became a celebration for Edison instead of for his invention.

That was when Henry Ford transplanted the old shack of Menlo Park to Dearborn, Mich., re-erecting the building where the electric light was born to commemorate at once an old friend and a great discovery.

It was all well meant, and Edison appreciated it. But he disliked honors and show as much as ever, and he wanted to stay at work upon his search for domestic rubber.

A Few Failures. He must have looked back, during those great celebrations in his honor, over the years that lay behind over his successes and his failures. For he had had failures. There was wireless, whose discovery he had missed by so narrow a margin; there were the automatic telegraph and the grasshopper telegraph, from moving trains; which accidents of business had buried; there was a one-piece poured concrete house which Edison had once hoped to make available to the workman at amazingly low cost; there was a flying machine propelled by charges of gunpowder, exploding in series, which Edison had patented in 1909 but never had developed.

The failures may have sprung up before his eyes, but so also must the successes. The modern American, from the time he arises in the morning awakened by an electric alarm clock, until he leaves the motion picture theater at night, uses progressively the developments from one after another of Edison's inventions. No other man has left such a mark upon his age.

But even in 1929, when all the nation paid tribute, Edison could not be satisfied. There still remained unfinished business—rubber.

He worked through 1929 and 1930 and the early months of 1931, experimenting almost constantly in Florida, and New Jersey. He was progressing but he would make no attempt to tell in detail what he had accomplished until he was ready to turn out rubber in quantity, at less than the market price.

Still Working.

He was still working when his last

E. F. HOFFMAN GIVEN 2 YEARS, 6 MONTHS

Edward F. Hoffman, convicted of using the mails to promote a fraud, in connection with the attempted sale of the Isle of Wight near Savannah, was given a sentence of two years and six months in the federal penitentiary Friday morning by Judge E. Marvin Underwood in United States district court.

Hoffman was convicted by jury last week, and his sentence is to date from August 26, when he was arrested in Miami.

In completing the court's record District Attorney Clint W. Hager found that Hoffman had been twice convicted, once in the District of Columbia court in 1912 for cheating and swindling, and the second at Charleston, S. C., in 1926 for a mail fraud. It was brought out that Hoffman served three years in the penitentiary on the latter charge.

MAN IS BADLY HURT IN CRASH OF AUTOS

Robert Stocks, 28, of 351 Grant street, was in a critical condition Friday night at Grady hospital following a crash between two automobiles at Edgewood avenue and Parkway drive. He was caught beneath the body of one of the cars and his chest was crushed severely.

Police investigated and made a case of reckless driving against E. H. Brady, of 231 Peters street, and P. W. Bradley, of 832 Boulevard S. E., who was driving the car occupied by Stocks.

UNIVERSITY OF PARIS TO HONOR AMERICANS

PARIS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Two distinguished American savants, Professor Walter Bradford Cannon, noted physiologist of Harvard University, and Henry Fairfield Osborn, director of the museum of natural history of New York, will receive honorary degrees from the University of Paris tomorrow in the famous amphitheater of the Sorbonne.

Chest Drive Is $309,256 Short Of $805,000 Urgently Needed

To date $375,446 of the $465,000 sought to operate the Atlanta Community Chest for the next 12 months has been raised.

To date $120,298 of the $340,000 sought for equally as vital and imperative emergency relief work has been pledged.

The campaign will be continued until the Chest goal is reached.

The big gifts committee is making a re-canvas of its contributors and of persons of means who have not subscribed. All other divisions of the campaign organization will re-work their territory in the city at large seeking additional contributions.

Firms and industries as yet unsolicited or reported are urged to do this work at once.

The public is urgently requested to aid these volunteer solicitors, every one serving without pay, to complete their task by Friday, November 13.

Plans to complete raising of the emergency relief fund will be announced later.

(Signed)

HAL G. VOORHIS,
General Chairman Atlanta Community Chest.

Ralph Capone Begins Trip to Leavenworth

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Ralph Capone, older brother of Al Capone, tonight at 6 o'clock aboard a special car on a Burlington train with a dozen other federal prisoners for Leavenworth (Kansas) federal penitentiary, where he will serve a three-year sentence for income tax law violation. The train is due at its destination tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock.

Capone was taken to the Union station in a patrol wagon with other prisoners from the county jail in custody of Deputy Marshal James O'Neill. A crowd of the curious was on hand.

At the station, the other prisoners were marched under guard through the main waiting room, but Capone was hustled through the baggage room, evading the crowd.

CREDIT BODY QUOTA NEAR COMPLETION

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—More than $400,000,000 of subscriptions to gold notes of the National Credit Corporation already are assured from banks throughout the country, Mortimer N. Backner, president of the Corporation, said tonight after a meeting of the executive committee at the federal reserve bank.

Although the corporation, formed for the purpose of assisting well managed banks throughout the country to weather any crisis has been ready for business several weeks, not a single application for a loan has been received.

STIGALL AFFIDAVIT UNTRUE, SAYS SIGNER

An affidavit purporting to show that E. C. Stigall, former Atlanta policeman, was "framed" to be disposed of but slew W. H. Hames, a private detective, in self-defense, in 1923, was repudiated in part Friday by the signer, J. H. Kirk, a witness at Stigall's trial, according to I. K. Hay, executive secretary to Governor Russell.

Hay said that Kirk called at the executive offices and declared that he had been tricked into signing the affidavit, that parts of it were untrue, and that if he had known which paper he was signing he would not have signed it. Hay said that Kirk told him that he had been presented with an affidavit to sign, but refused to sign the paper. A revised statement was presented to him, and he agreed to sign it if certain corrections were made, and when a paper was later offered to him, he signed it by the light of matches without reading it, supposing that it was the revised affidavit, Kirk told Hay.

Kirk refused to explain in detail which parts were true and which were untrue, Hay said.

SOLON EXONERATED IN DEATH OF BOY

FARMA, Mich., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today exonerated Representative Earl C. Michener, of the second Michigan congressional district, of blame in the death of Robert Moe, 7-year-old boy, who was killed by Michener's automobile yesterday.

Evidence was to the effect that the boy, confused as the car approached him on a highway, leaped in front of it.

Lindbergh Is Named On Aeronautics Body

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(UP)—President Hoover today announced appointment of Charles A. Lindbergh to the national advisory committee for aeronautics.

The committee was created by congress in 1915 to supervise and direct scientific study of aviation problems. It also serves in an advisory capacity in determining questions of general policy in regard to military aviation. At the Langley Memorial Aeronautical laboratory at Langley Field, Va., the committee conducts experimental work on fundamental problems.

Two army officers, two naval officers, one representative each of the weather bureau, the bureau of standards and the Smithsonian Institution, and eight citizens not connected with the government compose the committee.

"I liked Chesterfield right from the start"

"NO, I don't know a blessed thing about how cigarettes are made. But, of course, I would want the tobacco to be PURE. And then I've heard that the blending is very important. I'd want that to be done just right.

"Then the paper. I don't like paper that you can taste—or smell when it's burning. I'd want that pure too.

"Another thing. I want to smoke whenever I feel like it—without worrying about smoking too many. So I want my cigarettes MILD.

"But the main thing, of course, is TASTE. I don't care for over-sweetened cigarettes. I much prefer those that are just sweet enough.

"Chesterfield seems to satisfy in every one of these ways. That is why I'd rather have a Chesterfield."

SMOKERS tire of too much sweetness in a cigarette, and they don't like rawness. For a steady diet, they want a cigarette like CHESTERFIELD—a mild and mellow smoke, free from any over-sweetness or any harshness or bitterness. That's why more and more smokers every day are changing to CHESTERFIELD.

Good... they've got to be good.

WAR CLOUDS THICKEN.

Threat of serious conflict growing out of the skirmishes in Manchuria during the past month seems to be steadily becoming more serious. As a result, another special session of the League of Nations has been called for November 17 so that another effort may be made to smooth over the differences between these two far eastern nations.

Indications during the week that soviet Russia may be preparing to enter the situation were undoubtedly also largely influential in bringing about the decision to call the league into session again, for the repercussions of a conflict between Japan and Russia would have a serious effect upon conditions in every section of the world.

There seems to be good basis for Japan's refusal to obey the edict of the league and withdraw its troops from non-treaty territory. Practically all of Manchuria outside the territory occupied by the Japanese troops is now overrun with bandits, most of them former Chinese soldiers. Depredations of all sorts are being committed by these so-called bandits and there is little question that the abrupt retirement of the Japanese troops would witness widespread raiding and destruction of life and property.

The situation from the Japanese viewpoint is further aggravated by the reported killing of many of Japanese troops through the treachery of Chinese soldiers in firing from the protection of white flags at Mukden and on the Nonni river.

So far Japan had an apparently logical excuse for every advance she has made, all of them being based on the necessity to protect or repair the South Manchurian railroad or its connecting lines. The chief danger in the situation lies in the fact that most of these advances have been in the direction of the Siberian border, through territory over which Russia has long endeavored to secure control.

As things are now the league will be called on to consider a China which is apparently helpless; a Japan firmly persisting in a course which the league has condemned; and a Russian bear that is beginning to growl. It is a foregone conclusion that it will not be an easy task to work out a basis of agreement that will be satisfactory to all three.

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

Many persons who have read world history only casually, or not at all, express surprise at the stubbornness with which the French demand "security" for their peace, possessions and liberties.

But since the rise of Frederick the Great the French people have been the objects and often the victims of Prussian enmity. It needed the Napoleonic era to gender those Teutonic truculences toward France, for Napoleon's forays were his reactions against them.

Against the latest of the German invasions it was necessary to ally half the world for the salvation of France. And when, at last, the German enterprise was defeated and the issue of a peace treaty was being decided by the allies at Versailles, it was the natural thing for France to demand that she must furnish acceptable and trustworthy guarantees that she should henceforth be immune from German menaces. Which explains the prima facie hard terms of the treaty which Germany was forced to sign.

Tested by time it now appears that some of the terms of the Versailles treaty were onerous. They can be reasonably modified, and fortunately it seems that French sentiment is drifting in that direction, though just how far it will go remains to be seen.

The recent conference between Premier Laval and President Hoover has certainly laid the foundation for steps to be taken that may bring about a better understanding between France and Germany.

Both of these countries have everything to gain and nothing to lose by agreeing to a compact that will afford both ample protection, and at the same time guarantee the peace of a continental Europe.

AN IDEAL APPOINTMENT.

The naming of Dr. Michael Hoke, of Atlanta, as chief surgeon of the Warm Springs Foundation, brings to that institution a man whose genius as an orthopedic specialist has won for him a world-wide reputation.

A native of North Carolina, he came to Atlanta in 1897 shortly after his graduation from the University of Virginia. He soon evidenced outstanding ability in the treatment of bone disorders, his career being climaxed by his work in assisting in the establishment of the Atlanta Scottish Rite Crippled Children's Hospital, and his remarkable work in that institution.

Masonry has given him its highest honors and from the Atlanta hospital have grown similar Scottish Rite institutions in several sections of the country.

It is indicative of Dr. Hoke's devotion to the cause of suffering humanity that he should be willing to relinquish his lucrative practice in Atlanta to devote his efforts exclusively to the upbuilding of the great institution planned for Warm Springs.

In obtaining the service of such a man, the Foundation takes a broadening step in its progress. Its work has hitherto been confined almost entirely to the treatment of infantile paralysis, but the addition of an orthopedic specialist of Dr. Hoke's ability will mean that with the cure of this dread disease the work of reconstruction will go forward under as skillful direction as can be found in any other similar institution in the world.

The placing of the surgical end of the Warm Springs work under Dr. Hoke's direction will contribute materially to the fame of that institution, and enable it more than ever to serve humanity.

THE HOME OF TOMORROW.

The achievements of science in the control of light and air for homes, offices and factories are destined to improve the health of all mankind, according to an interview with Charles F. Keitering, head of the research laboratories of General Motors, written by Frazier Hunt in the current issue of the Cosmopolitan.

Especially will the home of tomorrow be radically different in its interior from that of today, according to Mr. Keitering in giving a word picture of the Utopian home that science and invention will build.

It will have double windows, but they will never be opened, because science will "beat nature all hollow when it comes to air and light." Since the air we will breathe will be washed and heated or cooled, there will be no more stuffy nights nor dry, moistless days.

A turn of a dial will give us just the best kind of light for our bodies in any part of our homes. Our food will be cooked in a regular electric factory, making the problem of dinner a mere matter of 30 minutes or so.

All of which may be very alluring to the residents of those frigid sections of the country who have to figuratively "dig in" during the winter months, or who suffer from unreasonable heat in the summer, but those who live in favored mountain sections of the south will probably cling tenaciously to the cooling breezes of a summer evening and the sparkling freshness of the sun-lit-filled air of a crisp winter's day.

The atmosphere of a southern home—even if some of it wafts its way from oven and skillet in generous kitchens—is too dear to us to make it likely that we will hastily supplant it with a man-made substitute, however healthy it may be.

Our monster airship is pledged not to do any fighting, which leaves open the question, why have it at all?

Cotton has sustained an increase in price and is quite able to stand much more of the same fortune.

Seems odd to call in a Rod-man to make a naval survey. But that's just like Hoover.

Senator Brookhart will soon be in full session and we will be relieved of his morning calls for an extra session.

Gandhi may soon leave England. He has worn out his loin-cloths and the British have worn out his patience.

The latest conference between Premier Laval and President Hoover has certainly laid the foundation for steps to be taken that may bring about a better understanding between France and Germany.

THE HOME OF TOMORROW.

The achievements of science in the control of light and air for homes, offices and factories are destined to improve the health of all mankind, according to an interview with Charles F. Keitering, head of the research laboratories of General Motors, written by Frazier Hunt in the current issue of the Cosmopolitan.

Especially will the home of tomorrow be radically different in its interior from that of today, according to Mr. Keitering in giving a word picture of the Utopian home that science and invention will build.

It will have double windows, but they will never be opened, because science will "beat nature all hollow when it comes to air and light." Since the air we will breathe will be washed and heated or cooled, there will be no more stuffy nights nor dry, moistless days.

A turn of a dial will give us just the best kind of light for our bodies in any part of our homes. Our food will be cooked in a regular electric factory, making the problem of dinner a mere matter of 30 minutes or so.

All of which may be very alluring to the residents of those frigid sections of the country who have to figuratively "dig in" during the winter months, or who suffer from unreasonable heat in the summer, but those who live in favored mountain sections of the south will probably cling tenaciously to the cooling breezes of a summer evening and the sparkling freshness of the sun-lit-filled air of a crisp winter's day.

The atmosphere of a southern home—even if some of it wafts its way from oven and skillet in generous kitchens—is too dear to us to make it likely that we will hastily supplant it with a man-made substitute, however healthy it may be.

Our monster airship is pledged not to do any fighting, which leaves open the question, why have it at all?

Cotton has sustained an increase in price and is quite able to stand much more of the same fortune.

Seems odd to call in a Rod-man to make a naval survey. But that's just like Hoover.

Senator Brookhart will soon be in full session and we will be relieved of his morning calls for an extra session.

Gandhi may soon leave England. He has worn out his loin-cloths and the British have worn out his patience.

The latest conference between Premier Laval and President Hoover has certainly laid the foundation for steps to be taken that may bring about a better understanding between France and Germany.

Both of these countries have everything to gain and nothing to lose by agreeing to a compact that will afford both ample protection, and at the same time guarantee the peace of a continental Europe.

AN IDEAL APPOINTMENT.

The naming of Dr. Michael Hoke, of Atlanta, as chief surgeon of the Warm Springs Foundation, brings to that institution a man whose genius as an orthopedic specialist has won for him a world-wide reputation.

A native of North Carolina, he came to Atlanta in 1897 shortly after his graduation from the University of Virginia. He soon evidenced outstanding ability in the treatment of bone disorders, his career being climaxed by his work in assisting in the establishment of the Atlanta Scottish Rite Crippled Children's Hospital, and his remarkable work in that institution.

Masonry has given him its highest honors and from the Atlanta hospital have grown similar Scottish Rite institutions in several sections of the country.

It is indicative of Dr. Hoke's devotion to the cause of suffering humanity that he should be willing to relinquish his lucrative practice in Atlanta to devote his efforts exclusively to the upbuilding of the great institution planned for Warm Springs.

In obtaining the service of such a man, the Foundation takes a broadening step in its progress. Its work has hitherto been confined almost entirely to the treatment of infantile paralysis, but the addition of an orthopedic specialist of Dr. Hoke's ability will mean that with the cure of this dread disease the work of reconstruction will go forward under as skillful direction as can be found in any other similar institution in the world.

The placing of the surgical end of the Warm Springs work under Dr. Hoke's direction will contribute materially to the fame of that institution, and enable it more than ever to serve humanity.

GROVE FOUND GUILTY OF DEPUTY'S MURDER

Thomas County Jury Finds Verdict Carrying Death Penalty.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A jury in Thomas county superior court tonight returned a verdict of guilty against Joe Grove, charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff H. A. White on June 7, this year. There was no recommendation of mercy, which under the Georgia law automatically means death in the electric chair.

The defense endeavored to establish an alibi. John S. Bailey, of Worth county, testified that Grove came to his house on what he believed was the first Friday in June and stayed until Monday. He fixed the date by a marriage of a friend occurring at that time. His testimony was supported by dates on a marriage license and certificate introduced by defense counsel, issued in Crisp county.

Testimony introduced by the state previously had been to the effect that the bullet that killed White had outstanding defects and markings on it, that when Grove was arrested in Alabama after the killing of White a pistol was found on him, and that bullet fired into a cotton bale from this pistol had the identical defects and markings of the bullet taken from White's body.

X-RAY FILM EXPLODES IN PHYSICIAN'S OFFICE

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 6.—An explosion of film in an X-ray room of a physician's quarters in the downtown business section today painfully burned a patient and the physician and caused two firemen to be sent to the Bird hospital for treatment after being overcome by poisonous fumes from the film.

While the film was being warmed over an oil heater it ignited, causing a general explosion which did little fire damage but considerable to the valuable X-ray and other equipment in the laboratory.

THOMASTON ARRANGES ARMISTICE PROGRAM

THOMASTON, Ga., Nov. 6.—General H. D. Russell will deliver an address here Armistice Day at the city auditorium. Review of the Robert E. Lee Cadets battalion on the parade grounds will be the feature of the day.

The pledge to the flag by the audience, essays, presentation of medals by Superintendent Smith, songs, roll call of the Upson county war boys who have died, taps, and then a barbecue prepared by the local chapter American Legion post complete the program.

ROME LEGION POST IN MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

ROME, Ga., Nov. 6.—The Shalika-Atway post of the American Legion is now engaged in its annual membership campaign during "American Legion Week," November 4-11. The membership of the post is now 258 and the drive workers are confident that this figure will be exceeded at the expiration of the present campaign period.

The drive will end with a meeting next Wednesday night, Armistice Day, the feature of which will be the serving of an old-fashioned army stew, vivid in the memory of ex-service men.

before the grand jury in Macon, according to District Attorney W. A. Butte, charging that he had paid the sheriff and his deputy $50 a week over a period of several months.

The sheriff has been busy on court records ever since he returned here after posting bond for his appearance in federal court for trial. He said some of the men had criminal records.

PIKE COUNTY SHERIFF INDICTED TWO DAYS AGO

Sheriff Clark of Liberty county, is the second Georgia sheriff to be charged with conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law within the past two days. On Wednesday the federal grand jury at Macon brought similar indictments against Sheriff Elmer M. Shackelford, of Pike county, charging that he accepted bribes from operators of illicit stills in his county. C. Carter, brother-in-law of Sheriff Shackelford and a former deputy, was also indicted by the Macon jury.

Child Dies of Burns After Rescuing Sister

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Anna Spradley, 7, died in a hospital here today from burns suffered yesterday morning when her quick action saved her twin sister, Alice, from a similar death.

Alice's nightgown caught fire yesterday morning as she stood before an open grate. Anna rushed to her sister's aid and tore her gown off, but the flames spread to her own garment.

STUDENT CONFERENCE LAUNCHED AT ATHENS

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 6.—The seventh annual Baptist student conference began last night at First Baptist church, this city. The University of Georgia, G. S. T. C., B. S. U., and Rev. D. B. Nicholson, state secretary Georgia B. S. U., are acting as hosts.

This conference is one of 17 similar conferences held during the months of October and November in the 17 states that compose the Southern Baptist convention. The keynote of this year's conference is "Victory for Christ." There will be seven sessions, the first began at 7 o'clock Friday, November 6, and will continue through Sunday afternoon. Each item of the program will carry out one thought in the development of this theme.

The program for last night's session included Dr. J. E. Dillars, pastor South Side Baptist church, Birmingham, Ala.; Dr. R. C. Gresham, pastor First Baptist church, Moultrie, Ga.; Dr. R. Q. Leavelle, president Blue Ridge assembly and pastor First Baptist church, Gainesville, Ga. Two student speakers appeared on the program. They were Miss Jennie Calhoun, Washington, Ga., and Miss Edna Hendrix, Columbus and Mercer University, Miss Elizabeth Thompson, Madison and Agnes Scott College, Decatur, is conference pianist. The G. S. T. C. trio furnished special music.

PLANNED BARGE CANAL IS URGED AT VALDOSTA

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 6.—Guy Woodford, of Atlanta, chairman of Georgia canal commission; R. A. Smith, city manager of Marietta, Fla., who is also an experienced engineer; Colonel E. W. Bailey, of Marietta, Fla., extensively engaged in shipping; and Mr. George Fols, of Waycross, another member of the Georgia canal commission, addressed a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs and members of the chamber of commerce tonight in the interest of the proposed barge canal from St. Marys to St. George.

"This barge canal is of far-reaching national importance," declared Chairman Woodford, in opening his remarks. The vision of this canal, he said, dates back to the days when the Spaniards first settled in Georgia and Florida, and George Washington, while president of the United States, wrote a letter to congress urging the importance of its construction.

"Since those days men have dreamed of a canal connecting the Atlantic with the gulf, and today it is almost a reality," said the speaker.

The speakers addressed a joint meeting of the clubs at a dinner given at the Daniel Ashley hotel, and created much enthusiasm for the project. The business interests of Valdosta pledged support to the movement in every way.

WET PLATFORM URGED FOR G. O. P.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Congressman Benjamin Golder, republican, today called on republican national committee to oust its chairman, United States Senator Simon D. Fess, of Ohio, and come out on a wet platform for the 1932 presidential campaign.

The statement followed an interview given by William S. Vane as he left yesterday for Florida, calling upon republican leaders to take a stand on prohibition.

Golder said the loss of New Jersey and control of the house of representatives should be a "danger signal" to party leaders and that new plans for the next national election should be laid.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR MARIANO PAPP

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Funeral services were held here today for Mariano D. Papp, 55, vice president of the Savannah Bank & Trust Company, who died Thursday after a long illness.

Mr. Papp was stricken while at work in the bank. He was the son of the late Frank B. Papp, for many years head of the freight department of the old Savannah, Florida & Western railway, now a part of the Atlantic Coast Line.

Surviving are two brothers, Frank Papp, of this city, and Elfred Papp, of Atlanta. Mr. Papp never married.

Fine Weather Seen For Football Game

Tech. weather will smile down on Tech. and all of Atlanta today, making everything lovely for a football game or any other outdoor pursuit, according to C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist. The clear skies will continue through the weekend and temperatures will be moderate. Friday's temperature was confined to a range of 20 degrees, starting with 41 degrees as a minimum and climbing to 61 degrees for a maximum. Today's range will be from 38 to 65 degrees, said Mr. von Herrmann.

NURSES TO CONVEY NEXT IN AUGUSTA

ORLANDO, Fla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The second biennial conference of the American Nurses Association closed here today with the election of Miss Emma Kelley, of Fayetteville, N. C., as president. Augusta, Ga., was chosen as the 1933 convention city.

STOVALL SAYS LEAGUE MAY AVERT SINO WAR

Savannah Editor Discusses Manchurian Situation in Waycross Speech.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Regret that the League of Nations had reached an "impasse" in its efforts to solve the Sino-Japanese situation in Manchuria was expressed today by Pleasant A. Stovall, editor of the Savannah Press and former United States Minister to Switzerland.

Mr. Stovall was a speaker tonight at a joint meeting of the Ware County Post of the American Legion and the local Legion auxiliary.

He said the situation over Manchuria was complicated by "possible interference of soviet troops."

"Originally," he added, "Japan was peevish because the United States, which had not been a member of the League of Nations, seemed to take a commanding position against her."

"Japan was still embittered against this country because of legislation by certain western states and because the United States had forced her to sign the peace of Portsmouth. Japan also considered it had been robbed of fruits of victory over Russia at that time."

He said that while it appeared as if the United States "had intervened at a bad time," he expressed belief the influence of the League of Nations, "although not materially effective in making Japan withdraw her troops, would in the end be influential in preventing any extended war in Manchuria."

O. W. SETTLE DIES AT HOSPITAL HERE

O. W. Settle, 44, of 661 Mayland street, S. W., died at a private hospital Friday night from a cerebral hemorrhage. He had been connected with the W. D. Beattie Realty Company here for more than 10 years.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, E. W. and Alfred Settle; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Settle Sr., of Hapeville; four brothers, J. E., E. C. Jr., Esten B. and R. R. Settle, all of Atlanta; and two sisters, Mrs. J. M. Maddox and Miss Lucile Settle, both of Atlanta. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Brandon & Bishop, funeral directors, of Hapeville.

MERCER HOME-COMING CELEBRATION TODAY

MACON, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—On downtown streets made gay for the occasion, in the youthful glamor of a football stadium, and in academical halls where Georgia statesmen will make speeches, Mercer University tomorrow will celebrate its homecoming.

From hundreds of miles alumni are coming to see the campus they used to know so well. The present students will join the former ones in celebrating a day that comes once in a year.

A greater number of spectators than ever before filled the Centennial stadium is expected to witness the football forces of Mercer University and Birmingham-Southern begin to play at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

When Mercer's freshman team won 14-0 over Gordon Junior college this afternoon "that good old school spirit" prevailed itself for tomorrow. Howling, whistling students vented their exuberance on Macon by snaking in a long parade and burning their foes of tomorrow's game in effigy.

Tomorrow's program will begin with a parade representing everything on the campus, leaving the chapel at 10:30 o'clock.

SOLDIER FOUND DEAD BELOW OPEN WINDOW

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The body of Sergeant William F. Short, Fort Benning, was discovered in an alley behind a downtown hotel beneath the open window of a room which he had occupied.

The soldier had been a guest of the hotel since he was discharged from his leave of absence from duty with his organization to visit in Montgomery, Ala. He was born in Vardonia, Mo., and a soldier since 1918. He was living in Marion, Ind., Route 6, his enlistment records show.

W. L. PHILLIPS.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 6.—The body of W. L. Phillips, former Waycross resident who was drowned in Galveston, Tex., coast of Texas, more than a week ago, was recovered Wednesday, and funeral services were held at Beaumont, Texas, Thursday.

Mrs. Phillips also was drowned, a fishing boat having capsized with man and wife. Mrs. Phillips' body was recovered several days ago, and funeral services were held at Beaumont while the search continued for Mr. Phillips' body.

Mrs. Phillips spent his early life in Pierce county and in Waycross, and prior to moving to Beaumont made his home here.

Maryland Fugitives Start Journey Back to Prison Cell

LOUISVILLE, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Baltimore detectives left here today with Robert Minners and Wilson Knott, who escaped from the Maryland house of correction October 9, shackled to their wrists.

The two prisoners said they were glad to return, but expressed a desire to finish their long sentence in the Maryland state penitentiary rather than the house of correction.

Minners and Knott were captured at Walden, near here, several days ago by officers who had been instructed to watch for a stolen automobile.

Four pistols and much ammunition were found on them. They escaped from George Meredith, who escaped with them, was severely wounded in Macon when his would-be holdup victim snatched his pistol and shot him. Meredith remained in a Macon hospital today.

The Maryland officers who started back with Minners and Knott left $400 to be distributed as a reward to the arresting officers, of whom there were four. The prisoners today were quoted by police as saying that had they been released, they would have "shot it out."

FEDERAL BUDGET CUT $350,000,000

Hoover Appeals for Sound Financing by All Departments.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—President Hoover's official pruning shears have snipped $350,000,000 from the requests of government departments for next year's spending money.

Reporting today upon the far-flung effort to shrink federal expenditures to a point nearer federal receipts, the president asserted "every item has been cut" in every government department.

And the pruning is not yet done, he added.

Reading from a formal statement, while the pencils of newspapermen whirled about his desk, the president made no direct mention of the tax situation. His words left still pending the question of whether or not the government will propose a tax increase.

Simultaneous, however, with his announcement of federal efforts at budget subtraction, Mr. Hoover struck down at what he once termed "propaganda" and pressure upon the coming congress for added appropriations.

He served notice that many new plans, meritorious or otherwise, must be deferred "until the country can afford to pay for them." Nothing would "contribute more to the return of prosperity," he said, than the maintenance of a sound fiscal position by the government.

As he concluded, the chief executive allowed the breaking of a usual rule, answering all questions by correspondents.

May Cut It Lower.
Asked how lopping $350,000,000 off the budget would make it compare with the last budget submitted to congress, he estimated it would be at least $280,000,000 lower. This roughly estimated subtraction, he said, might be too low by $20,000,000.

Taking the higher figure, the budget to be presented to the next congress thus might be estimated at $3,622,842,411.

The last budget, for monies now being spent, called for the appropriation of $3,932,642,411. Even this huge figure, however, does not equal the full governmental expenditure for the last fiscal year ended July 1, 1931.

Final figures for that period showed the expenditure of $4,219,950,500 as compared with total federal receipts of $3,317,233,493.

The president gave no details of how the $350,000,000 subtraction he mentioned had been obtained. Only this week the war department stepped forward to announce it had lopped off about $44,000,000 from its original request.

The most widely publicized slash, however, was brought about by a brother service—the navy department. Protests still echo in the capital against items reported cut from the naval budget but never officially announced.

Penny Club 'Team' 'Carrying the Ball' Against Cold, Want

Atlanta is one great "football team" with the Penny-a-Club carrying the "unemployment" ball while the employed citizens of the city run interference against the team composed of cold and hunger.

That was an analogy of Mrs. Thomas K. Glenn, organizer of the club, Friday when she called upon citizens to carry the unemployed ball to a goal of food and warmth for the winter.

"The amount of yardage," said Mrs. Glenn, "gained by the Penny Club depends entirely on citizens who run interference for us by contributing the necessary pennies."

"Often there is only one more yard to be gained, but the most powerful fullback is helpful unless he has the co-operation of a strong line and interfering halfbacks."

"Fifty thousand of Atlanta's population can run perfect interference for the unemployed if they each will contribute three pennies each day to the Penny Club. If such were done, we could feed every hungry and destitute person through the winter."

Penny Club boxes are placed in hundreds of convenient locations, but those who prefer to pay 90 cents a month or all in advance may send check to the Penny Club, 42 Edgewood avenue.

NEW ELECTIONS ORDERED AT TECH

Friday with the appearance of The Technician, Georgia's tech weekly, which Ed Fain, of Atlanta, is editor. The student newspaper charged that all was not as it should be in the first balloting and called for a new vote.

Faculty officials early Friday night said they knew nothing of the matter, but later Dean Vernon Skiles amended his statement to say that the reported ballot box theft had come to his attention and that under the circumstances he had advised the student council president, A. G. Well, that a second election should be held.

President M. L. Brittain and Professor A. H. Armstrong, faculty chairman of athletics, both said they knew nothing of the reported dissection.

Rubin's New Establishment Announces Opening Today

Atlanta's newest women's and children's ready-to-wear establishment will formally open this morning at 9 o'clock at 197 Peachtree street under the name of "Rubin's."

Complete details of the opening of the latest acquisition to the North Side business center of Atlanta were announced Friday by Sol Rubin, president of the firm, who recently resigned as general merchandise manager of Rich's, Inc., after 12 years' service with this pioneer mercantile establishment.

The new establishment will contain all departments of women's apparel, a children's department and millinery salon.

Those who will be associated with Mr. Rubin include Miss Cora Niehaus and Miss Josie Beyer, both of whom were connected with Rich's for 12 years as buyers. They enter the firm as vice presidents. Julian Furstenburg, native Atlantan, will be identified with the firm as secretary.

The building, hinged by other eastern buying centers purchasing complete stocks of the season's smartest raiment and accessories for both women and children, which will be sold at popular prices.

The new concern is one of the most modern of its kind in the city. It is located directly across the street from the Davison-Paxon building and in the heart of the North Side commercial area. Mr. Rubin and his associates leased the building three selling floors, recently from Walter Chandler, the deal being negotiated by Jesse Draper and E. A. Erwin, of the Draper-Owen agency, involving an annual rental of approximately $150,000. The building, hinged by other commercial businesses, is located between Cain and Ellis streets.

The building has been remodeled and equipped for a complete women's and children's apparel business.

Commenting on his latest venture in the mercantile field, Mr. Rubin declared that it had never been his intention to leave the city since severing his former connection, having refused all business propositions that would have taken him from the city.

"The years I have spent here have been the happiest of my life," said the popular merchant, who has a national reputation as being one of America's foremost and discriminating mercantile buyers.

Mr. Rubin has devoted 25 years of his life in the department store business. He joined Rich's in 1910 and for several years with the Stix-Baer & Fuller Co., of St. Louis, and previous to that with New York concerns. He was born and reared in Charleston, S. C. While in New York he was buyer and manager for four large department stores. Since coming to Atlanta he has had only countless friends, but gained a reputation of being one of the most efficient merchants in the south. He is popular in Atlanta's club and social circles.

"We hope to make 'Rubin's' a family affair," Mr. Rubin said. "We have one of the warmest and most modern establishments in the city. Our slogan will be 'We know Atlanta and Atlanta knows us.'"

Mahogany fixtures and glass display cases rule throughout the establishment, with elevator service to all floors. The firm will do both credit and cash business, with a complete range of popular prices on all articles.

The basement will be devoted to underpricing garments and accessories, duplicating all merchandise on the first and second floors, and representing merchandise especially bought for the department and "not the dumping ground of other departments."

The millinery salon will be under the supervision of Mrs. John Daly and her son, John, recognized as one of Atlanta's smartest millinery departments.

Mrs. Daly, for years, has conducted the millinery department at Keely's, featuring the exclusive "Sanative" hats and other popular-priced millinery. Miss Nellie Kane and Mrs. Gladys Holland will be connected with this department, which will also feature the latest models from New York and France.

While in New York Mr. Rubin made association with mercantile houses to represent them daily in the New York market, granting them privilege of shipping immediately new stocks on the market.

Mr. Furstenburg is highly excited over the location of the concern, having recognized the north side's commercial possibilities in 1927. He is one of Atlanta's younger business leaders and is well known throughout the city.

DINO GRANDI SAILS WESTWARD TODAY

ROME, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi sails for the United States tomorrow to present to President Hoover a "neutral" view point on what ails the world's economic political machinery.

He had a long talk with Premier Mussolini today and therefore goes as Mr. Duce's personal representative, empowered to speak in the latter's name. Both statesmen are said to feel that Italy is in a more detached position than any other European nation and alone among them is able to move quickly in any direction that the premier approves.

The Italian government has maintained silence on the possibilities of Premier Laval negotiating with Germany for the recasting of reparations payments, but diplomatic circles here say the feeling in Europe generally is gloomy on that score. Signor Grandi is expected to reach the heart of the problem in his discussion at Washington.

Signor Grandi, it is known, in his talks at Rome and Berlin received Chancellor Bruening's full confidence and will be in a position to tell Mr. Hoover what Herr Bruening himself would say if he went to Washington—but "sterilized" with his own and Mussolini's observations.

Going with him on the liner Conte Grande are first voyage across, and a staff of nine.

HARRY M. WURZBACH, CONGRESSMAN, DIES

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The republican minority of the national house of representatives was further reduced today by the unexpected death of Representative Harry M. Wurzbach, giving the democrats a stronger position in their plans to organize the house.

Wurzbach's death gave the house democrats a plurality of three, with one farmer-labor member on the rolls and three vacancies.

As the situation stood tonight there appeared serious doubt that the republicans would be able to elect a successor to the 14th district congressman who by personal popularity won his place as the only republican representative from Texas in five campaigns.

Whether a special election will be held in time to choose a successor to Wurzbach before congress convenes December 7 remained undecided.

Confident the republicans would be unable to advance a candidate who could duplicate Wurzbach's victories at the polls in a district with a heavy democrat vote, some democrats urged the election be speeded up in the hope that a democrat could reach Washington in time to cast a ballot in organizing the house.

Under the Texas law the election may be set for anytime within 30 days after the issuance of a proclamation by the governor, who may act as he sees fit. Governor Ross S. Sterling, who was at Houston today, gave no indication as to when the election will be called.

Wurzbach died of complications following an operation for appendicitis. He was 57 years old and is survived by his widow. The home is at Seguin.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at St. Mark's Episcopal church and burial will be in the National cemetery here.

The congressman was a native of San Antonio, served in the Spanish-American War and before his election to congress in 1920 had been county attorney and county judge of Guadalupe county.

MRS. ELEANOR MORE.
CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Herron More, sister of Mrs. William Howard Taft, widow of the late president and chief justice, died at her home here last night after several months' illness.

ANDREW MCKILLIP.
MULBERRY, Fla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Andrew S. McKillip, 65, former mayor and member of the city council for 35 years, died yesterday. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and came to Georgia as a child. Later he moved to this section in a covered wagon, accompanying the late Senator J. J. Swearingen.

CAPTAIN CHARLES SILVA.
KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Captain Charles Silva, 68, former superintendent of the Tampa municipal docks, died here yesterday.

Before the Spanish war he sailed aboard the ship captained by Captain Johnny O'Brien, famous as a sympathizer with the Cuban revolution. During the war he was a pilot aboard the U. S. S. New York in the battle of Santiago harbor. In the World War he served as a first lieutenant in the American army in France. Two sons survive. Funeral services will be held here Saturday.

MRS. ELIZA CRIM.
NEW MARKET, Va., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Eliza Crim, a widow who won the appellation "Mother of V. M. I. Cadets" by her tender care of boys wounded in the battle of New Market, died today at the age of 94.

OLIN H. LANDRETH.
SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Olin Henry Landreth, 79, one of the best known civil engineers in the country, died today at his home at Mount Vernon.

EDWARD A. WHALEY.
NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Edward A. Whaley, president of the Whaley Aircraft and Engineering Corporation, was found dead in his automobile in the garage at the rear of his home today. Death apparently was from heart failure.

The bravery of wounded sailors who aided comrades more seriously injured was told today as the death list mounted to seven from a series of three accidents involving the United States naval forces along the Pacific coast.

The stories of heroism came from the U. S. S. Colorado, where an anti-aircraft gun exploded while the ship was 40 miles at sea yesterday engaged in an attack upon mythical enemy of the air. Four men, an officer and three enlisted sailors, were killed outright as broken steel, hurled like shrapnel, raked the decks. Another sailor died today and a sixth was on the verge of death.

A recheck of the list of injured, originally placed at 10, disclosed that 22 were hurt. The 12 additional injured were sailors who had disregarded their wounds in the hours following the explosions and had worked side by side with those who escaped unscathed to help the seriously hurt and ailing.

Month after month some women still suffer needless pain, but those who know simply go to a drug store or soda fountain, get a package or dose of "B-C" and get perfect relief in 3 minutes, continuing their duties in pain-free, easy comfort.

"B-C" is the formula of two North Carolina druggists, contains several ingredients that function together for the relief of headache, neuralgia and periodical pains, accomplishing in a few minutes what no one drug formula can do under 1 to 3 hours.

"B-C" stops the pain, quiets the nerves, is perfectly harmless. No other preparation like it. Nothing else gives such profound relief. Ask your druggist, he knows.—(adv.)

New Stage, Screen Programs At Atlanta Theaters Today

O. HENRY'S "CISCO KID" NEW FEATURE AT FOX

Warner Baxter, Edmund Lowe, Conchita Montenegro and Lora Lane bring to Atlantans one of the truly glamorous stories of the old west as the feature of the new program opening at the Fox theater this morning. Made from a story of O. Henry, the picture, "The Cisco Kid," is certain to delight that very large proportion of picture fans who thoroughly enjoy a good western, with fast riding, hard fighting, sweet women and noble men, every once in so often.

The new stage show at the Fox is Fanchon and Marco's "Carmenese" idea and, when the work of Conchita Montenegro in the picture is noticed—as who could not—the fitting tie-up of stage and screen will be thoroughly appreciated. The famous F. & M. studio announces exceptional pride in this week's "spiel" and asserts that not only does it boast clever principals and gorgeous Sunkists, but that its staging and costuming place it among the most elaborate they have ever sent out.

Both Enrico Leide, conducting the Fox Concert orchestra, and Al Evans, with his great organ, have arranged special musical programs for Armistice Week. The more solemn memories of that emotional day of 13 years ago will be recalled by the orchestra while veterans who remember Armistice and Madelon will have a great time when Al's organ begins its program.

Clever cartoon comedies, a football short and other added attractions on the screen round out another of those varied and delightful programs for which Atlanta's premiere theater, the Fox, is growing more famous all over the country every week.

CHATTERTON IS STAR ON GEORGIA SCREEN

Ruth Chatterton in "Once a Lady," the feature picture at Keith's Georgia theater starting today will again thrill Atlantans with the emotional artistry which has so firmly established her as the "First Lady of the Screen."

In this Miss Chatterton portrays the adventuresome Russian girl, whose amorous escapades are the talk of Paris.

In the role of leading man we find a newcomer to the American screen in Ivor Novello, an English stage actor of renown.

With Larry Rich as master of ceremonies, the vaudeville bill on this program leans heavily toward comedy. Rich furnishes the laughs throughout the entire show, and he is a rotund comedian, able to make anyone laugh. In addition to acting as master of ceremonies, he presents an act of his own—a combination of comedy hits, songs and dances, in which he is assisted by his Oomphs.

Phil Rich is another high spot on this bill. He presents a character sketch entitled "Old Man Goof." Edler and Reed Brothers are tap dancers. Vincent Kay and His Georgian orchestra will entertain, musically speaking, with another of their series of overtures.

CAPITOL'S NEW FEATURE IS "PLATINUM BLONDE"

"Platinum Blonde," which is Frank Capra's latest directorial achievement, is showing beginning today at the Capitol theater.

Eight thousand two hundred and ten books—just for one short scene. That was what was necessary for the property department of Columbia Pictures to secure to give correct atmosphere to the library set in "Platinum Blonde."

With a 40-foot ceiling, massive carved doors, bookshelves reaching from the floor 30 feet upward, this room is an exact duplication of one in the mansion of a prominent New York family. When the task of filling the shelves with books began, it seemed a never-ending one. The book stores in Los Angeles and Hollywood were depleted of their supply before Steve Gooson, art director for Columbia, felt the set was ready to turn over to Director Capra.

The cast of "Platinum Blonde" includes Loretta Young, Robert Williams, Jean Harlow, Donald Dillaway, Walter Catlett, etc.

Aide Thanked by McAdoo Was Once on Constitution

W. E. Woodward, who is thanked for his assistance by W. G. McAdoo in the preface to the latter's book, was formerly a member of The Constitution's staff. Mr. Woodward, a South Carolinian by birth, lived in Augusta during his youth. From Atlanta he went to New York where he became a leading advertising writer, then a broker. After the success of his first book, "Bunk," he withdrew from business to devote his entire time to writing. He is the author of "Lottery," "George Washington, the Man and the Image" and "Meet General Grant." Mr. Woodward spent more than a year in Los Angeles while working with Mr. McAdoo on the latter's book, "Crowded Years."

COURT DISMISSES 9 LEA LIBEL SUITS

ATLANTA, Tenn., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Nine suits aggregating $900,000 against The Knoxville News-Sentinel preferred by Colonel Luke Lea, publisher and financier, now under conviction, charging libel were dismissed here today by Federal Judge Pat Quinn.

Under Judge Quinn's decision, Lea will have to pay all costs in the case.

Jackets Meet Tarheels Today; Mercer in Home-Coming Game

GEORGIA IS FAVORED TO BEAT N. Y. TODAY

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 6.—There are a pair of vocal cords in the throat of your correspondent which are rasping and about to blow out in several spots tonight all because of this fellow Catfish Smith, the Georgia end.

At intervals of one and two minutes this afternoon people kept grabbing your correspondent by the shoulder and by the arm. As this led to very embarrassing conditions indeed.

As your reporter shoved open the hotel doors and walked out into the chilling gale up galloped a copper and grabbed his arm, meaning the arm of this reporter.

Now it so happens that the conscience of this reporter was as guiltless as could be but some people are just naturally worried when coppers come up on the gallop and grab one by the arm. While the old throat pumped up and down trying to swallow and the old knees began to knock, the copper asked in a plaintive note: "Buddy, could you tell me which one of these boys is Catfish Smith? I want to see that guy."

This was such a relief that in the excitement I grabbed the copper by the arm and presented him to the Catfish once, twice and thrice. Nevertheless it was a very great shock to be standing on the sidewalks of New York, immortalized by Al Smith, and have a copper seize one in a firm grip. Try it sometime and see. There is no innocence that will not quit.

At the stadium this afternoon the old right arm, slightly palsied from being grabbed by this big copper, was rendered absolutely useless within an hour. Not less than 100 times did the conductor of this space lift an arm in a pointing gesture (oh, he never read Emily Post) and said, "That's him."

Now those two little words can get to be quiet a burden. Try it yourself sometime. Even if it is rude to point, lift the right arm, point it toward the center of Yankee stadium and say, "that's him" 200 times.

Without exaggeration it is safe to say that every newspaper in this town today, including the Scandinavian, had Catfish Smith in the headlines. He has become a fad. I fear that if he does not main half the Violet team and perform prodigious deeds of strength and valor they will think him just a sissy. His name has caught on. And he must back it up.

Catfish Smith is just about sure of all-American end this fall. And they might give him both ends and let him play them at one and the same time if this publicity keeps up.

A BEDTIME STORY.

And since one might as well get it all over with at once the story of how he got that name may as well be told now. Every other person who asked to have Catfish Smith pointed out asked to have explained why he had the name he bears.

The story goes that when "Catfish" Smith was in high school at Macon, one of the boys caught a catfish and could not dislodge him from the hook. "Catfish" Smith, always impatient with delay and doing the unusual, grabbed the fish and bit out the hook.

He is always doing that. He takes the shortest route. He catches passes that shouldn't be caught, makes tackles that are impossible and always pulls a rabbit out of the hat. He does the unexpected. That's why he's the most valuable end in Dixie—and one of the best in football.

IZZY KAPLAN CAN'T SIT DOWN.

Mr. Izzy Kaplan, who was a familiar figure at the training camps of Stribling and Schmeling before the Cleveland fight, showed up at the Yankee Stadium this afternoon to photograph the Georgia team.

All Mr. Kaplan knows about football is that there should be 11 men on a team wearing the same uniform. They could put the guards at quarterbacks and leave just three men in the line if they chose. But Mr. Kaplan would take the photo if there were 11 in the group.

Counting the team, Mr. Kaplan found there were 11 and so "shot" his picture. He was a bit thinish looking, was Izzy Kaplan. In fact, Mr. Kaplan was down to about 275 pounds.

"How does this happen?" he was asked.

"Well, what's all about it. Can a man have a boil, yes, which will not let him sit down, yes, and keep his weight?"

There is a great deal of logic in this as any gent who gets above the 225 mark likes to take the load off his feet, as the boys say.

It was very sad to see Izzy Kaplan walking desolately around with his vest hanging on him like the loose hide of an elephant. He was the life of the party one night at the Stribling camp, shooting off a skyrocket which backfired in his hand so hard that he could not turn it loose.

The next day Mr. Kaplan was worried about having what he said the doctors had called jaw lock, but it would take a very swift jaw lock indeed to catch Izzy Kaplan's jaws when they are shut, and so he never had the lock. And he is probably right about that boil.

STIRB IN PAPERS AGAIN.

W. L. Stribling is in the papers again and what is more some of them speak very respectfully of him. He has agreed to fight Mickey Walker. Up at Jimmy Johnston's new office in the Madison Square Garden they had discovered that Doc Kearns did not want any part of W. L. Stribling because he knows it would ruin any chances he has of getting a Schmeling fight.

And the word was at the Garden that he would get no Schmeling fight. The Garden is all perked up now with the new manager in charge. There was a horse show going on this afternoon and the fights are pulling a bit better. Stribling is sure of some winter fights up here. It would be strange if he were to suddenly bob up as a contender again.

THE NEW YALE SONG.

They are saying up here that the new Yale song is a boola boola for Benny Friedman with the last syllable left off. They say that Ben told the Yale boys they were stupid on the football field. And did it burn the boys down for a Michigan man to speak disrespectfully of Yale gray matter? If any? Yes, it did.

JACKETS CLASH WITH TARHEELS; TWO STARS OUT

Flowers and Jones To Be Missing This Afternoon.

By Jimmy Jones.

That well known worm which has been so dreadfully slow turning for Georgia Tech's football team this season will at last wiggle its hips a time or so to prove that it isn't completely petrified—it is hoped—when the Yellow Jackets meet the North Carolina Tarheels out there between the tall tiers at Grant field this afternoon.

The kickoff, which precipitates another of those tingling football battles between the invaders of Chuck Collins and the defenders of Alexander, is set for 2 p. m. Fair weather, a dry field and a better-than-you-think contest is the forecast.

A crowd, not so ample as some of those that have witnessed Tech-Carolina games of the past, but none the less enthusiastic for the diminution in numbers, will watch the Jackets attempt to equal or better, that 6-6 tie of last season.

TECH WILL FIGHT.

Although buffeted and billowed by the better eleven of the conference, the pulse of battle still beats under those Golden Jerseys of Alexander's men and although some of their best warriors will watch the contest, the others will be out there fighting for victory.

Professor A. H. Armstrong, who keeps tabs on attendance figures out at the Flats, does not foresee anything resembling a rush for the turnstiles, due to Tech's setbacks but believes that many purchases will be made in the dollar section. A crowd at least larger than that which saw the Vandy game is looked for, as there is no competition over at Athens today.

Coach Chuck Collins, the man who aroused the Carolina alumni to adjectival heights when he dropped two star players from his squad, arrived at Atlanta yesterday at the head of 29 players and quartered his men at the Biltmore.

TARHEELS IN SHAPE.

The Carolina coach announced that all his players were in good condition, but stated that he looked for a hard game from Tech.

"They're always tough for us. We thought that game was in the bag last year but it turned out differently," Collins stated.

The Carolina coach spoke over radio last night, while his players were guests of Carter Barron at the "College Night" program of the Fox theater.

Collins will trot out some smoothly performing players to lead the fans to look upon. There is Rip Slusser, the 10-second man of the backfield, who scored all the 18 points against N. C. State last week. There is Stuart Chandler, a light but speedy ball carrier. Fygal, 195, and McVey, 165, are at guards and despite the vast difference in weight they are a very clever pair.

MR. CROOM.

And oh, yes, Mr. William Croom, that ubiquitous young man who threw a scare into Georgia and caused Harry Mehre's heart to miss a couple of beats at Chapel Hill, will be in there to do the kicking for the Tarheels. Croom is the boy who ran 33 yards for a touchdown against Georgia after Chad Collins had stated most solemnly that Croom was only in there because he could kick. Chuck would have his little joke.

But Slusser is the man the Jackets will watch when it's a running play that is called today. Slusser can haul the mail as few halfbacks can haul it.

As for the Jackets, they are not quite ready for the game, that is, physically. They could be in better condition. Buck Flowers and Casey Jones will not be able to start, but the other crimples have come around nicely, thanks to some skillful manipulating of restoratives by the blond bandage wrapper, Mike Chambers.

CAIN IN LINEUP.

Bob Tharpe will not be able to start at left tackle and in his place will be Tom Cain, the reformed fullback. Cain is a husky lad who has been troubled by illness this season, but is still due to find himself at tackle.

McArthur will start in place of Flowers at quarterback, and will do most of the kicking, excepting when Ferguson is in line.

The Tarheels will have a weight advantage today, due largely to the presence of June Underwood and Jimmy Hodges, a pair of 200-pounders at tackle, and Ellis Fygal, a 195-pounder at guard.

In "Red" Gilbreath, the Tarheel center, fans will see one of the most alert and aggressive centers in the conference today. Gilbreath was a star against Georgia, going down fast on kicks, in fact, frequently beating the line.

Cracker Manager Hunts Sir Reynard

READYVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 6.—Johnny Dobbs, manager of the Atlanta Crackers, was among the distinguished visitors taking part in the one gallus fox hunt over the hills and down through the dunes in this vicinity, which ended Thursday.

Dobbs brought a pack of hounds here and in the evenings would be found pursuing his and the dogs' quarry—by Sir Reynard—through the woods and fields.

Carolina's Strong Man

The resolute looking man that you see above is Chuck Collins, coach of the Carolina Tarheels, who dismissed two star players from his team early in the season over the protests of the alumni. Collins has been both praised and censured for his act, which required a great deal of courage.

Carolina Mentor Deserves Credit For His Firmness in Johnny Branch Case.

By Jimmy Jones.

There have been some very unusual happenings in the annals of sport. There was the wrestler who refused to go on because his opponent had halitosis and wouldn't budge an inch until the promoter produced the listerine. There is a football coach who composes love letters for his athletes when they are at odds with the girl friends—believe that or not.

But the University of North Carolina has the only football coach who ever defied the alumni association, not to mention a few relatives and two literary societies, by ruling his star ball carrier ineligible and keeping him that way. The man who stuck by his guns when certain parties were saying catty things about him and letters with pungent postscripts were being mailed him (special delivery) is Charles "Chuck" Collins, who has his football team here to play Tech.

If it had been some modicum substitute that Collins had barred from his squad, his task would have been easy. But it so happened that the player who violated the rules was a star back and one of the most popular players Carolina ever had—Little Johnny Branch.

Collins never hesitated. The presence of Branch at the safety man's post to run back kicks meant a lot to the success of Collins' season. But he dropped Branch from the squad for disobedience on the Florida trip and with him went Roy McDade, his best tackle.

The wrath of the heavens descended upon Mr. Collins and the valves of vitriol were opened wide. His name of correspondence tripled. The Chapel Hill post office had to put on an extra postman to handle Mr. Collins' mail and the telephone company had to add an extra operator to handle Mr. Collins' calls. It seemed that all the dear alumni were taking pen in hand and writing to Chuck or picking up the receiver to telephone Chuck.

CHUCK DEFIES.

Some of the alumni and many of the students took Collins' side. Many did not. Alumni are hard to defy, but Collins defied them. Carolina's strong man held his ground. They say Branch has repented, but Collins has not forgiven. Carolina has played three games now and Branch is still a conspicuous member of the freshman squad.

Branch is a senior and a great favorite and he may be allowed to play in the game with Duke, as his punishment has been ample. But this is far from definite. It seems that when Collins rules a man ineligible he remains ineligible.

The case of Collins vs. the alumni is still being aired, but Collins, by remaining firm, has set a record for firmness in coaching.

And in honor of the good old alumni, Mr. Collins has invented what he calls his "alpha shift." It is a play whereby all the interference is concentrated on the coach.

MERCER PLAYS IN HOME-COMING FEATURE TODAY

Great Crowd Thronged Macon for Birmingham-Southern Game.

By Jack Troy.

MACON, Nov. 6.—This greatest of Mercer home-comings attracting among the other thousands of celebration-minded persons scores of alumni who, for business and other reasons have not visited the campus in many years, will reach its peak tomorrow afternoon in Centennial stadium with the playing of the Mercer-Birmingham-Southern game, on the outcome of which will hinge the hopes of both teams, each with one defeat, to continue in the S. I. A. A. championship race. Defeat will mean definite elimination for either team.

Noted Georgians expected to view the game, headed by Governor Dick Russell, include Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta; President W. Cecil Neill, of the state senate; United States Senators W. J. Harris and Walter F. George; Speaker Arlie D. Tucker, of the state house; L. T. Gillen, spiker pro tem, of the house; William Murphy, of Savannah, president of the Citizens & Southern Bank, Company, and a member of Mercer's endowment commission, and Governor B. M. Miller, of Alabama.

REVERSALS.

Both teams suffered their initial reversals of the season last Saturday, Mercer losing by the narrow margin of a field goal to Centre, and Birmingham-Southern bowing by a much larger score of 26 to 0 to Chattanooga.

This creates a situation, an ideal situation, from the standpoint of the spectators. For both teams are gathering their forces for a mighty effort to return to the ranks of the favored. Then, too, the Birmingham Panthers are expected to spring over that 13-to-6 defeat of last year here. It's a situation of limitless possibilities any way you look at it.

Jack Russell, who has developed this season the greatest team in his three years at the helm of Mercer football, is faced with the inevitability of playing the game with his squad with inexperienced players.

THREE ARE OUT.

Bob Smith, star center, out since the Centre game with a twisted knee and feared lost for the season; Bryant McDaniels, hard-blocking back, and Tom Vezy, end, are the only ones not expected to play, however.

Jack Zimmerman, star passer; Brad Lamson, quarterback, and Shorty Hollingsworth, halfback, will play despite troublesome injuries.

Ernie Zinkowsky, whose fleet feet rival those of the premier Pinky Walden, is being held out of the starting lineup by Coach Russell, who plans to send the stellar sophomore runner into the game when a scoring opportunity presents itself.

For Lamson and Hollingsworth the game will be their last appearance before Macon fans and for a spell their chances of playing seemed mighty slim, indeed. Lamson will start at quarterback, with Hollingsworth at halfback.

GRIEF DISPELLED.

Much of Luke Russell's grief has been dispelled by the splendid development of Harry Lichter, reserve center, who is carrying on in Smith's position in a satisfactory fashion.

The game is expected to feature a pair of hard-to-stop backs wearing the Orange and Black of the Mercer Bears. They are Pinky Walden, flame-tatched, snake-shipped halfback, and Johnny Cimperman, a line-destroying fullback.

These speedy crusaders of Mercer football will link their endeavors with those of their teammates in a supreme effort to keep the home fires burning.

Dickens, Chandler, White and Downes Are Starting Backs

Bulldog Line Uncertain; Georgians Take New York by Storm; "Catfish" Smith Is Fans' Idol.

By Ralph McGill.

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 6.—Without the aid of tea leaves or a crystal ball New York has declared the Georgia Bulldogs as its favorite in the Saturday afternoon game at the Yankee Stadium when they meet the New York University eleven.

The Bulldogs are the most publicized team that has visited New York. And if Vernon (Catfish) Smith does not land a vaudeville contract before he leaves it will be his own fault. The papers are making Georgia a bit secondary to Catfish and b'gosh if the dummy at New York University, used in tackling practice, hasn't got Catfish's name on it.

Indications were that at least 70,000 people will see the game Saturday afternoon. The advance sale is 40,000, according to reports from the office. The stadium seats 76,000, which is quite a mob scene. The game starts at 1 o'clock Atlanta time.

The boys are going to be cold tomorrow afternoon. It was cold this afternoon. An examination of the papers revealed the fact that the weather is a story up here. They all got together, did the big shots in weather guessing business, and said that Saturday would be cold and colder.

It took no expert to guess the weather. There was a cold, penetrating wind cutting right through to the bone, making it very uncomfortable indeed for the New York boys who were trying to act as if it were very mild and the southern writers just a lot of sissies for feeling it.

Harry Mehre, Rex Enright and Ted Twomey, the Georgia coaches, stood around with their hands in their own pockets. They were shivering and shaking, were the Georgia coaches. It was not because they were afraid or worried, but because of the cold. This was probably true or everyone up here is scared as what should Chick Mehan, the Violet coach, be doing but shivering, too.

MERE SHUNS ROLE.

Harry Mehre refuses to be put down as a favorite. He thinks the game is about even while Chick Mehan, modest to a fault, selects his own team to win.

Mehre is undecided about his line. He was quite sure about his backfield. It will be Jodie White at fullback; Spurgeon Chandler and Marion Dickens halfbacks. And Austin Downes, the little Napoleon himself, at quarter.

That much is sure. The line isn't. Harry Mehre lined up his first team line and a backfield without a punter for Izzy Kaplan, a hero and the scapegoat of a million years to make a picture of Izzy Kaplan does not care who is in the picture. He knows that there should be eleven men in a picture of a football team and that their jerseys should all look alike.

THE BOYS POSE.

"Is this your team, Mister Mayor?" asked Izzy Kaplan.

"Yeah," said Mr. Mehre. "Well, if I belong to you all right," he said and "shot" the boys and then waddled off.

The line which will start Saturday should be a mixed one with most of the first stringers in there. For instance I would guess that Catfish Smith and Weddington Kelly would be at the ends. The Hamrick and Rose would be at the tackles; Leath and Patterson at guards and McWhorter at center.

The team was in excellent spirits. They looked just as large as the Violets which your correspondent hung around to look at. The Violets are smarting, as the boys say, under the defeat of last week at the hands of the West from Oregon. The boys may be smarting but they will have to smarten up to win.

There I go committing myself. Trying to keep from getting out on that limb and finding oneself there after all. However, it is much better to have a say and lose than to keep quiet and say I told you so.

BOYS ARE READY.

The boys should be ready to go. It is to be hoped they haven't been reading the papers. They are put down as the greatest exponents of the Notre Dame system with the lone exception of Notre Dame herself. Which is just about right. The boys can do that old swing and hop.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

INSTALLMENT XVII.

Aunt Tessie was cordial enough, but she did not speak to Irma unless first addressed, and she stopped no more in Irma's doorway to ask if she could help with the mending. Wallace was kind and considerate, but he was more silent than before and far less respectful of Irma's wishes. Oftentimes Irma lay awake at night wondering what she ought to do. Should she leave Wallace? Was that the kindest thing to do? She was anxious to do the thing that would make him happiest. She knew that aside from the profitless delight of possessing her fresh youth she had brought him nothing. Oh, yes, the baby, but the thrill of parenthood had not been new to him. He loved the baby only from a sense of duty and not with the unreasoning passion which she felt for the child. He could not even understand the feeling which made her care so little how much other people were hurt if it gained the baby anything.

Leaving him, however, was simple in theory. In practice it would be a most difficult thing to do. There was no one to whom she could turn. Besides a runaway wife might cause Wallace painful embarrassment and she had done nothing to deserve that. She wished life were not so frighteningly complicated. It would be such a relief to say, "Look, here, Wallace, I know I've been a dreadful disappointment to you. What do you want to do about it?"

But life was not so simple. To satisfy his sense of duty Wallace would dissemble. Nothing could be learned from asking him such a question. Time would answer it, not Wallace.

Irma's faith in time's ability to clarify all doubts was not misplaced. Around the time that holy wreaths were beginning to sound a cheerful note in front windows Wallace melted. One might say that the beautiful story of the Yuletide exercises a strange power over the most skeptic soul, but Irma knew Wallace well to believe that he forgave her her trespasses because a baby was born in a manger. She felt certain that Wallace had forgiven her only because his resentment had died from natural causes and could not be resuscitated. At any rate, by Christmas bygone were bygone. The Grahams gave each other gifts and laughed a lot and exchanged kisses, and because Irma had given Aunt Tessie a nice, roomy handbag Aunt Tessie paused in Irma's doorway on the evening of December 23 and asked if Irma needed any help with her mending.

Wallace had bought perfume for Irma, silk stockings for Mildred, and a scarf for Aunt Tessie. He regretted deeply that these things were the best he could manage and apologized to his family for their simplicity. Mildred was perplexed. Her father's contributions had never been noticeable for their extravagance or elegance. Ever since she had outgrown her toy Christmas her gift had sat beneath the tree completely unused by the brilliance and originality of Jane Malcolm's.

This year Jane had presented her dearest friend with a pair of scarlet birds neatly housed in a gift and scarlet cage. The silk stockings compared no more unfavorably with the already beloved birds than on the preceding year a box of handkerchiefs had compared with Jane's gift of coral colored pajamas cutely monogrammed above the pocket. Mildred looked wonderingly from the silk stockings to the scarlet birds. Why did he pick this year to apologize?

Irma knew. . . . It was because of the endowment policy. Wallace had taken it from glib salesman during his engagement to Anne. Religiously he had paid on it and in March it was going to take its toll. Irma admired Wallace's constancy. She was the sort who permits insurance to lapse and diaries to become address books after the third entry. It staggered her to think of the patience with which he had waited all these years for the moment when the company would reverse the order and pay him. Twenty-five hundred dollars they were going to pay him. It was more money than either Irma or Wallace had ever possessed all at one time. Wallace had plans. Irma knew that he intended to buy Mildred some desperately desired object and to give Aunt Tessie fifty dollars with the strict proviso that not a cent was to be spent on Mildred. That was why his Christmas gifts were presented with apologies this year. In the light of coming surprises they were very paltry indeed.

Irma knew also what Wallace intended to do with approximately fifteen hundred dollars of his endowment money. He intended to take Irma on a deferred honeymoon to Europe. Ever since their marriage he had been telling her about it. She had dismissed it from her mind as harmless prattle, as in fact she had dismissed the idea that there would be an endowment at all. Nobody in Irma's world had ever collected money on his own policy.

"Nice to be a far-sighted person," Wallace said. He and Irma were in their living room on a January evening waiting for the Grahams to arrive. There would be bridge and then a little before 11 Irma would disappear. From the kitchen the promising sounds of tinkling dishes and percolating coffee would assure Wallace and the Grahams that Irma was not far away. Their conversation would flow steadily on till Irma called them to the dining room. It was part of the game that the Grahams should say, "O, you shouldn't have bothered, Irma," and that the Grahams should say, "O, it's only a bite."

Irma was wondering if by any chance they were out of coffee. It was several seconds before she realized that Wallace had spoken to her. "What do you mean?"

"I'm talking about 2,500 again," he said. "I'm congratulating myself on having taken that policy out."

"Yes, that was nice."

"And that isn't all. It took will power. I can tell you, to keep working through two years without a vacation so that this summer there's six weeks coming to me."

"Yeah." The dryness of her tone invited comment, but he was silent. She turned to look at him. He was lying on the divan staring dreamily up at the ceiling. He was in his shirt sleeves. His coat hung over the back of a nearby chair. She knew that it would be grasped hurriedly when the Gardner's car stopped before the door.

"To you know, Wallace, that a trip to Europe would be very nice."

His eyes turned from the ceiling to Irma without losing a fraction of their lazy dreaminess. "Everybody's rest, aren't you is more or less silly," he said.

"Yes, but don't you see, Wallace, we're not in a position to throw money away."

"We're people with responsibilities."

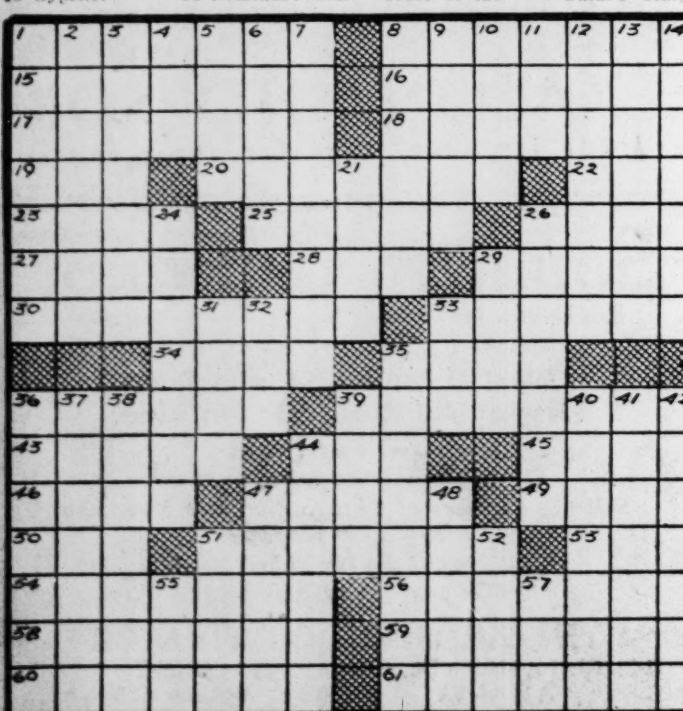

"I know. I've always had responsibilities." He sat upright on the divan and faced her. His eyes were grave now and rather sad, as though Wallace had scattered their dreams by his swift, sudden gesture.

Mrs. Crown Speaks In Montgomery, Ala.

Federated Garden Clubs of Montgomery, Ala., held a successful fall flower festival last week staged in the museum and during the three days that it was open more than 3,000 viewed the flowers. The outstanding feature to garden enthusiasts was the garden school held every day and conducted by Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, of Decatur, Ga. This was the second garden school held here by Mrs. Crown, the first having been held last February.

Attractive Debutantes Presented At Reception and Supper-Dance

Fashionable Atlanta matrons and style, and her shoulder bouquet was members of the younger set of society of orchids. Gift bouquets and baskets filled with flowers sent to the debutantes assembled yesterday afternoon at the reception given by Mrs. Irving Thomas and Mrs. Julian de Bruyn Kops to formally introduce to society their charming debutante daughters, Miss Ida Thomas and Miss Jane de Bruyn Kops, at the handsome home of Miss Thomas' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. King, on Peachtree street. These attractive debutantes have been intimate friends since childhood, and their presentation to society at yesterday's reception carried unusual sentiment and interest.

Effective Decorations. The reception apartments were effectively decorated with amilax, ferns, stately palms and vari-colored flowers. In the drawing room where the receiving party stood, a color motif of green and white prevailed, and baskets held gorgeous white chrysanthemums, and eleven-branched candelabra held white tapers, the light casting a mellow glow over the radiant scene. Wicker standards holding yellow chrysanthemums beautified the hall, and the corners were banked with palms and ferns. Silver candlesticks held yellow tapers and decorated the mantel in the hallway.

The exquisitely appointed table in the dining room was overlaid with a handsome lace cloth, and had for its centerpiece a graceful arrangement of Sweetheart roses, swinsons, valley lilies, white and pink snapdragons, blue lupins, and maidenhair ferns. Silver candlesticks held pink tapers, ornamented with clusters of pink roses, and blue lupins, tied with silver ribbon bows. Silver bonbon dishes held pink candies and mints. Vases holding Columbia roses adorned the mantel which was banked with ferns.

Receiving Party. Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. de Bruyn Kops, Miss Thomas and Miss de Bruyn Kops were assisted in receiving by Miss Elizabeth Tyson, of Frederick, Md.; Miss Martha Ellis, of Macon, and members of the 1931-32 Debutantes' Club. Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames George E. King, William Akers, Jr., Williams and Miss Frances Woodberry.

Tea was poured by Mesdames Reginald Fleet, Turner Jones and Miss Virginia Courts and Mesdames Eugene Harrington, Julian Thomas and Miss Nisbet LeConte served coffee. Presiding at the punch bowls were Misses Ida Akers, Margaret Cummings, Clara McConnell, Martha Keys and Gertrude Askew. Little Misses Alice Mose Thomas and Julia de Bruyn Kops wore a stunning model of black chiffon velvet and her corsage was of pink roses and valley lilies. A locket presented to an ancestor of Mr. de Bruyn Kops was the only piece of jewelry worn by Mrs. de Bruyn Kops.

Debutantes' Costumes. Miss Thomas was lovely in white satin, fashioned along princess lines, the waist studded with rhinestones and finished with shoulder straps of rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies. Miss de Bruyn Kops was attractive in eggshell satin, the skirt being cut on diagonal lines and the waist being fashioned with a cowl neckline, in front and decollette in back, and banded with crystal beads. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies.

Miss Tyson was gowned in turquoise blue satin, trimmed with bands of brown fox fur, offset by a girle of rhinestone and worn with a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Miss Ellis wore pink satin, fashioned empire

Mr. Rusk Will Speak To Boulevard Club.

Parks Rusk, recently elected council representative from the thirteenth ward, will speak to the members of the Boulevard Park Women's Club Monday, November 9, at the meeting of the club, which will be held at 3 o'clock at the S. M. Inman school auditorium. Mrs. M. L. Clifton will speak on "Helpful Hints for November," followed by a brief round-table discussion on fall garden plans. Members of the club are particularly urged to be present and others wishing to visit or join the club are invited to come.

House Warming Fetes Mr. and Mrs. Stetler.

Dr. and Mrs. Stewart Brock entertained 50 guests Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at a house warming complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stetler, whose marriage was recently solemnized at the home of the young couple on Piedmont road. Mrs. Stetler's mother, Mrs. Martha Elrod, and Mrs. James Harrison, the mother of Mrs. Brock, will assist in entertaining.

Further enhanced the reception rooms and attested the popularity and the affection in which Miss Thomas and Miss de Bruyn Kops are held by an adoring circle of relatives and friends.

Buffet Supper and Dance. A buffet supper and dance last evening brought to conclusion one of the most brilliant social events of the season, the guest list including the debutantes and their escorts.

Mrs. J. O. Wynn Will Fete Miss Anne Wynn Fleming

Miss Anne Wynn Fleming, attractive debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Fleming, will be honored at the brilliant supper-dance at which her grandmother, Mrs. James Oggood Wynn, will entertain at the Piedmont Driving Club Wednesday evening, December 9. Several hundred members of the debutante contingent and younger social set will be present. Miss Fleming will be formally presented to society at the reception at which her mother will be hostess Wednesday afternoon, November 18, at the Piedmont Driving Club, the guests for that affair to include a group of prominent matrons.

Mrs. Wynn, who is in Chicago at present, will return to Atlanta Tuesday, November 17, to spend the winter. Miss Fleming is being feted at a number of parties during the debut season and two additional hostesses, who will entertain in her honor, the dates to be announced later, are Mrs. Clarence Haverly and Mrs. Philip Alston.

Rev. and Mrs. Jones Feted at Party.

Rev. Henry Jones, pastor of the Park Street Methodist church, and Mrs. Jones were honored at a surprise shower given by the members of Rev. Jones' congregation Wednesday at the parsonage in celebration of his birthday. The house was decorated with fall flowers and a beautifully embossed birthday cake centered the daintily appointed table. Mrs. J. H. Cannon presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Luther Medlock arranged a musical program. Rev. Jones and Mrs. Jones received a number of gifts.

Mrs. Hewlett Fetes Miss Catherine Flagler.

Mrs. Samuel D. Hewlett entertained Thursday at a luncheon at her home on Peachtree street, honoring Miss Catherine Flagler, a lovely member of the Debutante Club. The luncheon table was graced with a silver bowl filled with pink roses and pink tapers were placed at intervals. Invited to meet Miss Flagler were Misses Jacquelin Moore, Nancy Frederick, Harriett Wynne, Ann Wynn Fleming, Mamie Raine, Margaret Pilet, of Dallas, Texas; Louise Moore and Elizabeth Moorman, of Oklahoma.

Do You Walk Around a Ladder? Do You?

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

I wonder why we find it hard to sympathize with the fears of others when we have so many fears ourselves. Probably it is because we have marked those particular fears of our list as we mark off the passing days and we expect our calendar to be the universal one. But the trouble is that some are born to fear as the sparks are prone to fly upward. They never master the little ones but have to truck them between the big ones that come with the years. Did you ever notice the contempt in the voice of a woman who isn't afraid of a mouse when she sees another woman terrified at the sight of one scurrying across her living-room floor? One would suppose from her patronizing manner that she didn't know the word fear. But mark it down, she suffers from it and if you only stay with her long enough you will discover what her fears are.

I know a brave man who is terrified at the sight of a spider. I know another who is equally afraid of a black cat. And I have heard of a woman trying to shame her husband for his fear of a snake when she herself wouldn't go in a dark room to turn on the electric light. These are only physical fears, relief of childhood. The great fears are the spiritual ones that come with maturity.

It is said that a little baby knows only one fear. He is afraid of being dropped. A trained nurse tells me that a new baby will quiver all over at the least intimation that he is not being held firmly in a strong grasp. It is the firm grasp that quiets him. And it is the same with us all. Once upon a time a little boy called to his mother from his dark room: "Come quickly, Mother, there is a lion in the window. She rushed to him, picked him up in her arms and carried him right into the jaws of the lion. The picture on his retina had not disappeared but it had no power to hurt him with those arms about him. She held out his little fingers and placed them on a huge sunflower. Tremblingly he rubbed his hand over the seedy surface and courage returned. Probably he will remember some such experience in your childhood where the magic of your mother's hand changed a lion into a lamb.

In a fine old philosophical writing there is this sentence: "Perfect faith casteth out fear." It is the child's fears, allayed by confidence in an individual. Maybe your fears are larger and must be allayed by faith in some great principle. Maybe your fears are economic and must be allayed by faith in your bank, or your nation, or by some great leader who, like Moses, will undertake to lead you out of the wilderness of depression. But faith there must be if fear is conquered.

I helped an old man down a flight of steps. Said he: "All of life is a battle with fears. When we are little we are afraid of falling and we grasp the strong hand. When we grow older we are afraid of falling, though in a different sense. When we grow old the baby fears return. But," he mused "the cure for all these fears is faith, indeed the hope for the long future is simply faith."

Culbertson on Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Unblocking a Suit

Getting rid of blocking cards is frequently a troublesome question both for Declarer and for adversaries. With the Declarer the problem occurs when he has cards of equal rank in one hand and the other. With the Opponents of the Declarer the issue becomes acute when they find they have an established suit, but either through the peculiarities of distribution or through carelessness, the player with the least number is unable to permit his partner to lead the suit.

Today's hand is an example of unblocking by the Declarer to avoid a later disadvantageous lead at a Slam contract.

Neither side vulnerable.

Through somewhat ambitious bidding, barely justified by the honors trumps held and the ascertained fit of the hands, South was playing a contract of six hearts. West had overcalled South's Opening bid of a club with one diamond, but there had been no further adverse bidding. As North had bid spades, West counted on the possibility of 2 tricks in diamonds to defeat the contract and therefore opened his Singleton ace, not so much with the hope of securing a ruff as of gracefully surrendering the lead which he found an undesirable burden.

The first round of clubs was won in the Dummy and South then proceeded to lead trumps, but he found that the adverse hearts were divided 4-2. It was necessary to lead all his trumps in order to pick up East's four fags. South then realized that the remaining club honor in the Dummy was a menace. His club were of equal trick-taking power, but while the commanding club was in the Dummy, they could not be run. On the fourth round of hearts, therefore, South discarded Dummy's remaining club and then led four more rounds of clubs. West had been compelled to discard twice on the trumps. He now was forced to find four other discards. He selected for discards three diamonds and three spades, while South discarded all the diamonds in the Dummy, retaining the four spades intact. East had followed suit to the first nine rounds and on South's tenth round of play he led the Queen of spades. West's play was entirely immaterial. As a matter of fact, he refused to play the King, hoping that South would be afraid to take the spade finesse. However, the success of the finesse was essential, so the Queen was permitted to ride and when the finesse held, South led his last spade, thus making every trick, as all of Dummy's spades were good.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: State Dummy's ruffing values.

Answer: With 3 Trumps A void is worth 2 tricks. A singleton is worth 1 trick.

1 trick A doubleton is worth 1-2 tricks. Note: Having two short suits, only the shorter as trumps may be led.

Soviet Enthusiasm Reaches Pitch On Eve of 14th 'Red October' Day

BY STANLEY P. RICHARDSON.
MOSCOW, Nov. 6.—(P)—The eve of "Red October" was ushered in tonight throughout Russia with a flourish of red banners, fireworks and the sound of progress under the soviet, and a fanfare of newspaper trumpets of the achievements that have been attained.

There will be no traditional celebrating tomorrow of the fourteenth anniversary of the October revolution which unsent the provisional government and hoisted the bolshevik to power.

Vyacheslav Molotov, president of the council of commissars, declared before the annual convocation of the Moscow soviet today that while the year's plan is unfulfilled, the five-year plan as a whole will be accomplished in four years.

"The epoch of 'world revolution is drawing near,' he said, 'and our proletarian government stands at the head of the revolution.'

Hotels and all available lodging space in Moscow are crowded to capacity. Thousands of visitors from other sections of the country and numerous delegations from abroad are here in holiday mood.

SENATOR MCGILL WEDS IN WICHITA

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 6.—(P)—Senator George McGill, of Wichita, and Mrs. Virginia Parker were married here last night in a simple ceremony performed by Judge J. D. Dickerson.

The couple expect to leave Saturday by motor car for Washington. In the national capital they will join Senator McGill's two children by a previous marriage, Robert Jr. and Katherine, who are attending school there.

Mrs. McGill, who formerly lived in Oklahoma City, is an accomplished horse rider. Her recreational hobbies include horseback riding and golf.

Senator McGill, a democrat, was elected junior senator from Kansas at the last election to fill unexpired term of Charles Curtis, who was chosen vice president in 1928.

1,500 MEN RECALLED BY CHEVROLET PLANT

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 6.—(P)—The Chevrolet Motor Ohio Company, after a temporary shutdown for needed repairs, has reopened its Central avenue plant, recalling 1,500 workers, including both night and day crews. Indications are that the force will be maintained throughout the winter, officials said today.

The Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, it was announced, is adding a few men with indications that there will be a sizeable increase in the force next month.

THEOSOPHIST LEADER REPORTED NEAR DEATH

MADRAS, India, Nov. 6.—(P)—Mrs. Annie Besant, 84-year-old theosophist, is so ill, it was learned today, that she is unable to take nourishment.

She has admitted, her friends say, that her work in this life is finished, but firm believer that she is in reincarnation, she has asserted that "I shall return immediately in a Hindu body to continue the task of building a greater India."

Mrs. Besant has been ill ever since she fell on the marble stairway of the Theosophical Society headquarters at Adyar six months ago.

RENALDO IS ACCUSED OF ABANDONING CHILD

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—(P)—Duncan Renaldo, film actor, was arrested here today on a fugitive warrant charging him with abandoning his child in New York. Preliminary hearing was set for November 27.

Don't let this picture "stump" you. If you cannot recall the old saying that fits it, or any of the other pictures of the series, call at the office of The Constitution and obtain one of the helpful and valuable reference lists of 2,000 proverbs. Or a copy of this interesting list may be had by mail by writing to the Proverb Editor, The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., and enclosing a two-cent stamp for return postage.

Instructions.

The total prize money to be awarded Proverb Contest entrants is $2,300. The first prize is $1,000; the second, $500; the third, $250; the fourth, $100, and the fifth, $50. The supplementary prizes consist of ten prizes of $25 each and fifteen prizes of $10 each. There is no charge to take part in the contest and it is not necessary for contestants to register. There are no subscriptions to get, and nonsubscribers are invited to take part. There will be no tie-breaking series of pictures and no extra work will be required. The correct answers are what count. The proverb pictures and answers are not to be submitted until all of the pictures have been published.

"Good Finishers" Will Win $2,300 in Game of Proverbs

Contest Followers Reach Home Stretch—Answers to Questions.

BY THE PROVERB CONTEST EDITOR.

Entrants in The Constitution's enjoyable old sayings game are racing down the home stretch toward their respective goals, represented by $2,300 in cash prizes. It is common knowledge that "good finishers" are almost invariably the winners in most undertakings, so it behooves contestants to exert their best efforts now.

Contestants who have never won a prize in newspaper competition should be heartened, because the proverb contest differs from all others. It is entirely possible and even probable that the winner of the first prize of $1,000 will be a "first-timer"—and what a thrilling surprise it will be when he or she is officially notified by the judges that the contest has afforded not only recreation but a substantial award!

Questions and Answers

Not Returned.

Question: "I would like to know if I could get my proverb set back after the contest is over." Mrs. L. J. D.

Answer: No sets will be returned. She Will.

Question: "Miss Alter, who draws the contest pictures, autographed a copy of 'Proverbs of All Ages' for a friend of mine. Will she autograph a copy for me? I would certainly appreciate it if she would do this." Mrs. A. X. K.

Answer: The p. e. submitted your request to Miss Alter, who promptly informed him that she'd be delighted to autograph a copy of 'Proverbs of All Ages' for you.

Date Indefinite.

Question: "Can you tell me the exact day after the contest when the names of the winners will be made known?" A. L. Q.

Answer: The names of the winners of the contest will be announced as quickly as possible. No definite date for publication of their announcement has been set.

Colonel Henderson.

Question: "Who got up the list of 2,000 proverbs? It must have taken a long time." B. K. F.

Answer: The list of 2,000 famous sayings being distributed by The Constitution was compiled by Colonel Everett Randall Henderson, the distinguished writer and critic.

Mayor Demands
Tigert Prove Drinking Charge

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 6.—(P)—Mayor John T. Tigert, today called on President John F. Tigert, of the University of Florida, either to confirm or deny a statement attributed to the college head that he had demanded "as much protection for students as is given bootleggers" in charging that liquor drinking was general at football games here.

In a formal letter to Dr. Tigert, Mayor Tigert declared that "if you confirm it I demand an apology for his insidious reflection upon the law enforcement officials of Jacksonville and failing in that, I challenge you to substantiate the charges contained by my statement."

Mayor Tigert said the statement attributed to Dr. Tigert was "amazing and unparliamentary." The mayor's letter was in answer to one from the university president asking for closer co-operation of Jacksonville authorities in curbing liquor drinking at football games here.

"Fortunately for me, since this controversy has been started by you, Sheriff Cahoon and his chief deputy were also present at this meeting. I repeated the statement you made regarding drunkenness, profanity and lawlessness, and all sorts of disorder, and every man present, including Sheriff Cahoon, stated that they were unqualifiedly of the opinion that there was less drinking and disorder at the Auburn game than any football game ever played before at the stadium...."

Boston Visitors Arrive in Avondale

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Chase, of Boston, Mass., arrived Thursday to visit their daughter, Mrs. H. C. Foster, of Berkeley road in Avondale Estates, and expect to leave Monday to spend the winter months in Miami, Fla.

Mrs. W. C. Henry, of Kingston road, had as her recent guests Mrs. P. S. Arthur, Miss Margaret Bullard and Roland Bullard, of Fayetteville, N. C., who were en route to North Carolina after a trip through south Georgia.

Mrs. S. W. Castles entertained at bridge Tuesday evening, honoring her guest, Mrs. Harold Foote, and the guests included Mesdames William Rogers, J. E. Founds, Ford Pratt, Jack Harris, David Leake, Claud Pyburn, Harold Foote. Prizes were presented to Mrs. William Rogers and Mrs. Foote.

Mrs. Lewis Meng entertained the Avulon Bridge Club at luncheon Thursday.

Joe T. Nelson, of New York city, is visiting his sister, Mrs. C. L. Henry.

Mrs. C. L. Phillips is quite ill with pneumonia.

Misses Mary and Peggy Murphy, of St. Louis, Mo., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Murphy, on Fairfield drive.

Mrs. T. R. Hatcher entertained Friday at a bridge-luncheon. Her guests included Mrs. Fred Kennon and little daughter, Katherine Kennon, of Columbus, Ga., accompanied Harry Rogers for a visit to Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Hatcher last Sunday. Katherine Kennon has entered Eggleston Memorial hospital.

Steve Laner, of Pageland, N. C., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Hatcher last Saturday, en route to join Mrs. Laney in Columbus, Ga. Mrs. Harold Foote left Wednesday for Michigan City.

Washington, Nov. 6.—(P)—Counsel for Bishop James Cannon Jr. has withdrawn an appeal for a writ of prohibition against the senate campaign funds committee investigation into the bishop's political activities.

The writ was denied by the District of Columbia supreme court and the senate committee immediately completed its inquiry.

Cannon called upon his counsel to appeal the case against the senate committee, but it was learned today that as soon as the action was filed it was withdrawn by his attorneys.

The Southern Methodist churchman had challenged the jurisdiction of the senate committee.

He is making the same complaint now against the grand jury which indicted him recently on charges of violating the corrupt practices law.

Wandering Beaver Caught in Backyard At College Park

The so-called depression may be serious to many, but to T. W. Shaw, 219 East Princeton street, College Park, things are looking brighter since "experts" Friday night identified an animal killed in his back yard as a genuine beaver.

Mr. Shaw's police dog knows a stranger when he sees one and Thursday night the beaver—certainly a stranger, even if he is an inhabitant of these parts—took up a position in a tree in the yard. The dog howled. Mr. Shaw investigated and shot the interloper.

Then a controversy began, and for a time embroiled "experts" in great numbers. To settle the matter, Peter Twitty, who is state game and fish commissioner, was called upon to say whether or not beavers are common to Georgia. He said that while the animal is not numerous, it is found in certain sections.

But it doesn't particularly matter to Mr. Shaw, for beaver or no beaver, the pelt of the slain animal is soft and warm and "it will serve as the first start on a coat when Mrs. Shaw no matter what it is," the new owner said.

The animal in question has thick dark red fur and is equipped with a large, strong, fan-like tail of heavy proportions.

"That makes him a beaver," said Mr. Shaw, "but even if he isn't, if others will just turn up for that fur coat, I'll be satisfied."

WINE BRICKS HELD LEGAL IN ALABAMA

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 6.—(P)—Sale or possession of "wine bricks" in Alabama is not illegal.

This was the ruling announced by the state's general, Thomas E. Knight Jr., in response to a request from W. J. Raines, of Gadsden, solicitor of the 16th judicial circuit, for an opinion.

The opinion also quoted directions on the package as showing that it is for "non-intoxicating beverage" purposes and cited an opinion of the Alabama court of appeals in a case which held "until a mixture contains alcohol, possession is not in violation of the law."

WILLIAM ASHFORD IS LAID TO REST

Funeral services for William T. Ashford, 86, a leader in the growth and development of Atlanta since 1868, who died late Wednesday night at the residence in Ashford Park, Peachtree road, were held Friday afternoon at the residence, with Dr. Samuel T. Senter officiating. Private interment was in Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Ashford, a native of Watkinson, Ga., near Athens, had been prominent in business, church and social life here for over 50 years. He had been connected with the Ashford Park Nurseries, Kennasaw, Guano Company, and Moore, Marsh & Co. He was widely known throughout the city, and was a member of the First Methodist church. He was a Confederate veteran, and a graduate of Miami University, at Oxford, Ohio.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Cobb Caldwell; two granddaughters, William A. Caldwell and Howell Caldwell, and two great-grandchildren, William A. Jr. and Virginia Caldwell, all of Atlanta.

Cannon Withdraws Probe Writ Appeal

Washington, Nov. 6.—(P)—Counsel for Bishop James Cannon Jr. has withdrawn an appeal for a writ of prohibition against the senate campaign funds committee investigation into the bishop's political activities.

The writ was denied by the District of Columbia supreme court and the senate committee immediately completed its inquiry.

Cannon called upon his counsel to appeal the case against the senate committee, but it was learned today that as soon as the action was filed it was withdrawn by his attorneys.

The Southern Methodist churchman had challenged the jurisdiction of the senate committee.

He is making the same complaint now against the grand jury which indicted him recently on charges of violating the corrupt practices law.

Wandering Beaver Caught in Backyard At College Park

The so-called depression may be serious to many, but to T. W. Shaw, 219 East Princeton street, College Park, things are looking brighter since "experts" Friday night identified an animal killed in his back yard as a genuine beaver.

Mr. Shaw's police dog knows a stranger when he sees one and Thursday night the beaver—certainly a stranger, even if he is an inhabitant of these parts—took up a position in a tree in the yard. The dog howled. Mr. Shaw investigated and shot the interloper.

Then a controversy began, and for a time embroiled "experts" in great numbers. To settle the matter, Peter Twitty, who is state game and fish commissioner, was called upon to say whether or not beavers are common to Georgia. He said that while the animal is not numerous, it is found in certain sections.

But it doesn't particularly matter to Mr. Shaw, for beaver or no beaver, the pelt of the slain animal is soft and warm and "it will serve as the first start on a coat when Mrs. Shaw no matter what it is," the new owner said.

The animal in question has thick dark red fur and is equipped with a large, strong, fan-like tail of heavy proportions.

"That makes him a beaver," said Mr. Shaw, "but even if he isn't, if others will just turn up for that fur coat, I'll be satisfied."

WINE BRICKS HELD LEGAL IN ALABAMA

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 6.—(P)—Sale or possession of "wine bricks" in Alabama is not illegal.

This was the ruling announced by the state's general, Thomas E. Knight Jr., in response to a request from W. J. Raines, of Gadsden, solicitor of the 16th judicial circuit, for an opinion.

"This office cannot assume that this product is sold for the purpose of violating the prohibition laws," the opinion read.

The opinion also quoted directions on the package as showing that it is for "non-intoxicating beverage" purposes and cited an opinion of the Alabama court of appeals in a case which held "until a mixture contains alcohol, possession is not in violation of the law."

co-operation of Jacksonville authorities in curbing liquor drinking at football games here.

"Fortunately for me, since this controversy has been started by you, Sheriff Cahoon and his chief deputy were also present at this meeting. I repeated the statement you made regarding drunkenness, profanity and lawlessness, and all sorts of disorder, and every man present, including Sheriff Cahoon, stated that they were unqualifiedly of the opinion that there was less drinking and disorder at the Auburn game than any football game ever played before at the stadium...."

How Many Girls Does a Man Love Before He Finds the Right One?

Miss Gilstrap and Mr. Herndon Wed at Druid Hills Baptist

The wedding of Miss Clara Louise Gilstrap and Mr. Herndon was an impressive ceremony last evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Druid Hills Baptist church. Rev. Samuel A. Cowan performed the marriage service in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Stately palms formed an artistic altar, the greenery being starred with large baskets filled with white chrysanthemums, while smaller baskets holding these flowers flanked either side of the altar and were encircled by seven-branched candles holding white tapers. The pews for the families were marked with bouquets of white chrysanthemums tied with satin ribbon. While the guests were assembling Mrs. J. B. Felder rendered a program of appropriate musical selections on the organ. Mrs. Gerald Mitchell, soprano soloist, sang "Because" and "Love You Truly." The bride, wearing a "Lohengrin" gown, was the processional march, and during the ceremony "To a Wild Rose" was played. Mendelssohn's wedding march was used as the recessional.

Wedding Attendants.
The maid of honor was Miss Mary Holbrook, of Powder Springs, Ga., cousin of the bride. She was attractively gowned in a Nile-green satin, made with high waistline. The bridesmaids wore slenderizing hiplines, and her slippers were of the same green shade. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums tied with pink satin ribbon. Little Mary Ann Cowan was flower girl. Her dainty dress was of pink point d'esprit, and she carried a bouquet of pastel shades of flowers. She carried a nosegay of dainty flowers tied with blue satin ribbon. The bridegroom had as his best man Losco Burdett, of Macon, Ga., and the ushers were Harry M. Allen and Wilmer B. Thompson.

Miss Raine and Guest Are Feled At Party Series

Miss Mamie Raine, popular vice president of the Debutante Club, and her attractive visitor, Miss Margaret Pilet, of Dallas, Texas, are being complimented at a series of social gatherings. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Raine Jr. will be hosts at dinner given, November 12, at their home in Marietta. Miss Raine and Miss Pilet leave Saturday, November 14, for Athens, Ga., where they will attend the Georgia-Tulane football game and they will spend the week-end in Augusta, Ga., as guests of Mrs. Eliza Huxley Nixon, who will entertain members of the younger set at a supper-dance that evening at the Country Club. They will return to Atlanta Monday, November 16.

Miss Raine will share honors this evening with Misses Harriet Wynne and Gardner Gandy at the party at which Mrs. Nash Boyles will entertain at the Piedmont Driving Club dinner-dance. Miss Raine and Miss Pilet will be honored at the luncheon at which Mrs. Rix Stafford and Mrs. Robert Davis will entertain at the Capital City Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Honor Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Robert Jr. entertained at a buffet supper last evening at the Piedmont Driving Club in honor of their visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott White Springs, of Fort Mill, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Heckler, of New York City; and Roland Ellis, of Macon. A yellow and white chrysanthemum formed the keynote of the decorations and the color motif of yellow and white was carried out in the table appointments. Mrs. Robert received her guests wearing a handsome gown of pink chiffon, heavily beaded, and complementing her costume was a shoulder spray of orchids. The guests included a group of prominent Atlantans.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert will entertain again this morning at their annual football breakfast at their home on Fifteenth street in honor of their visitors. White and gold, the Tech colors, will be used in the decorations, and followings the breakfast the guests will attend the Georgia Tech-North Carolina football game.

Mrs. Ralph Bullard To Honor Debutantes.

Mrs. Ralph Bullard entertains at a tea Monday, November 16, at her home on Collier road, in compliment to Misses Janice Moore, Louise Moore, Harriett Wynne, Jane King, Elizabeth Thompson and Nancy Frederick, popular debutantes.

Mrs. Bullard was formerly Miss Myrtle Coker and a limited number of intimate friends of the honor guests will be invited.

MRS. PETER MEETS MOLLY.
BY THEOTON W. BURGESS
In softest eyes and sweetest smile
Alas, there oft, is hidden guile.
—Old Mother Nature.

Little Mrs. Peter Rabbit left Old Jed Thumper, the gray old Rabbit who was her father, sitting in his favorite retreat chewing on nothing at all and started out to visit some of the familiar places of the days when the Old Pasture was her home. In one after another she found signs that someone had been there recently. Somehow she resented the fact that anyone else should have used these places. It was a silly feeling and she knew it, but she couldn't help it.

At last as she started to enter a familiar old bramble-tangle a warning thump stopped her. She hesitated a moment and then thumped a reply. It was a gentle thump, a friendly thump. It brought an equally friendly thump in reply and almost at once a pretty young Rabbit appeared. It was Molly, whom Peter had fancied himself in love with. For a full minute the two looked at each other. Then they touched noses, which is the Rabbit method of friendly greeting.

"Do you live here?" inquired Mrs. Peter, and tried not to be jealous as she saw how pretty she was and what soft eyes she had.

"Not just here, but I live in the Old Pasture," replied Molly politely. "I guess you are a stranger here?"

Little Mrs. Peter nodded. "I am now," said she, a wee bit sadly, "but once I wasn't. I was born here."

"I haven't lived here very long," replied Molly, "but I like it. It is a nice place."

"Don't you get homesome?" inquired Mrs. Peter artfully.

Molly chuckled. "I used to," she confessed, "but I don't any more. I have a friend who comes to see me every night."

"You should hear him boast. He certainly is old enough to know better. And I let him think that I believe it all. My dear, he isn't afraid of Reddy Fox or Old Man Carrot or Hooty the Owl or Shadow the Weasel. Can you imagine any Rabbit not being afraid of those dreadful people?"

Mrs. Peter shook her head. "No," said she, "I am afraid I can't."

"He says he isn't afraid of them because he is too smart for them," Molly babbled on. "Last night he started out to show me about. Just as if I didn't already know all about the Old Pasture! He thought he was leading me, but he wasn't. I managed to lead him around to the home of Reddy the Fox and he didn't realize it until we got there. You see, I know that Reddy and Mrs. Reddy had gone off on a long hunt. My dear, I wish you could have seen him when he discovered where we were! Why he was afraid of his own shadow! I haven't enjoyed myself so much for a long time. He really is a nice old fellow, but silly. As for me being in love with him, I should say not! You see, I am in love with someone else."

"Oh!" said little Mrs. Peter a bit blankly.

TARZAN THE TERRIBLE No. 42

Pan-at-lee suddenly awoke from a terrible dream in which she thought a fearsome beast was creeping upon her. Awoke; to find the dream a reality! In the cave's dim light she saw a form beside her; the felt hairy fingers upon her, and a hairy breast against which she was being drawn. Screaming, she tried to fight the thing from her; but her scream was answered by a low growl, and another hairy hand seized her by the hair of her head.
